Ike's Recovery 'Reasonably Sure'

PM'S SON SEEKS SEAT IN TODAY'S VOTING

Four federal ridings in Quebec and New Brunswick elect representatives in the House of Commons today.

The outcome of the by-elections, all of which were Liberal seats, cannot materially affect the party strength in the House, but two were being watched with particular interest. In Temiscouata (Eastern Quebec) Jean Paul St. Laurent, second son of the prime minister, sought to enter political life as a Liberal member. In Quebec South, Frank Power, hoped to win the seat recently vacated by his father, Sen. C. G. (Chubby) Power.

The other elections were in the Quebec Riding of Bellechasse and the New Brunswick riding of Restigouche-Madawaska.

Results will be known early this evening.

Canada Backs Japan, 16 Others for UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Canada today suggested the blanket admission to the United Nations of 17 countries, including Japan.

Paul Martin, chief of the Canadian delegation to the General Assembly, called for "serious consideration" to the early admission of all countries whose applications have been blocked by the east-west deadlock except North Korea, South Korea, North Viet Nam and South Viet Nam.

"There are, of course, particular difficulties with reference to the admission of countries temporarily divided," he said.

Martin, who has participated in the secret arms reductions talks among the world's five major atomic powers for the past four weeks, said Canada was "more hopeful than at any time in the past 10 years" that a disarmament agreement could be reached.

Martin hailed last summer's Geneva conference on the peaceful uses of atomic energy and said he was "confident that it will be followed by other meetings and developments."

He deplored the tendency of world powers to hold major conferences outside the framework of the UN.

"For the most part," he said, "we do not criticize in any way these efforts to promote settlement by other means, we regret only that they cannot be dealt with here because, in many cases, the parties concerned are not represented."

Arsonists Set New Blazes In Vancouver

Victims Driven Out Into Street

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two houses were heavily damaged here during the week-end in a series of fires blamed on arsonists.

The biggest blaze broke out late Sunday in a three-storey rooming house and spread to another multiple dwelling next door. The rooming house was destroyed, while the adjacent structure was badly damaged. There were no immediate estimates of loss.

Nearly a score of tenants in the rooming house were driven into the street when the fast-spreading flames, fanned by a stiff wind, roared up the back of the frame building.

Residents said a sheet of flame 15 feet high suddenly shot up from the back of the rooming house, quickly enveloping the structure.

Mrs. E. E. Walton, 76, who lives next door to the destroyed house, said "it surely was the work of a firebug. In 10 minutes the whole back of the house was in flames."

Earlier, a man told police a neighbor had caught two boys, aged nine or 10, starting a fire against a woodshed. He said the blaze was extinguished before it could spread.

Another resident said he saw the same boys starting a fire in a nearby block.

Two older boys were sought by police after they were seen turning in an alarm in the south end.

Canada, U.S. Chiefs Study Wheat Problem

OTTAWA (BUP)—Top Canadian and American cabinet spokesmen studied the problems of growing farm surpluses and the prospects of continuing the international wheat agreement at a morning session on North American economic co-operation here today.

Spokesmen for both sides said the discussions were making good progress at the close of the morning meeting.

The two cabinet teams, including the key economic policy farmers of both governments, met for more than three hours during the morning. They broke up to go to lunch with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent at his official residence and were scheduled to return for an afternoon meeting.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson said the question of continuing the international wheat agreement, by which the major wheat exporting nations arrange guaranteed markets with some 44 importing countries, was "touched upon" at the morning session.

Outside the conference room he told reporters the United States position of continuing the agreement through another term "has not yet been affirmed."

Benson said the discussion also dwelt on the need for consultation between Canada and the United States on the handling of large farm surpluses.

U.S. special deals and give-away shipments of grain have caused considerable concern to the Canadian government.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER ... second term in doubt?

President's Illness Upsets Politicians, Stock Exchanges

(Compiled From AP and UP Dispatches)

DENVER, Colo.—President Eisenhower has a "reasonably good chance" for complete recovery from Saturday's "moderate" heart attack.

Dr. Paul White, of Boston, one of the world's top heart specialists, so declared today after spending the week-end at the ailing President's bedside.

He also said that if the President's progress continues at its present rate he would be "physically able" to serve a second term.

But across the United States repercussions from Mr. Eisenhower's surprise illness boiled through financial and political circles.

At New York, bond and share prices broke sharply, some issues falling as much as $15. The decline was likened to 1929. Stock prices skidded in sympathy at London, Toronto and Montreal. (See Page 7 for details).

Politically, dismayed Republicans privately conceded the President's illness was a one blow for the party's prospects in the 1956 presidential elections. Democrats (also privately) were hinting their bleak presidential outlook suddenly was shining like a desert sunrise.

Must 'Take Things Easy'

Dr. White, one of five noted doctors attending the President, was so pleased with Mr. Eisenhower's progress that he left for his Boston home this morning. The noted physician was flown to Denver Saturday night to attend Mr. Eisenhower in Fitzsimmons army hospital.

The Boston specialist warned, however, that "the President will have to take things easy for a couple of months, if he gets by the next two weeks, then you can say he probably will be all right."

President Eisenhower's illness struck early Saturday morning in the summer White House here, where the President has been holidaying.

It was announced Saturday morning as a "digestive upset." In mid-day it was revealed the President had suffered a "mild" (later upgraded to "moderate") heart attack, and had moved to the army hospital. The President, it was reported, walked from his automobile into the hospital.

Blood Clot in Heart Artery

The attack was described as a "coronary thrombosis"—formation of a blood clot in a branch of the arteries which supply blood to the muscles of the heart.

The President was in an oxygen tent all day Sunday but today the tent is being used only occasionally. Doctors said the tent is standard procedure in coronary cases because it enables patients to get complete rest.

Mr. Eisenhower Sunday noon had his first solid food since entering the hospital. He called for, and was brought, a bowl of oatmeal.

This morning he ate a hearty breakfast—fruit, oatmeal, a soft boiled egg, toast and milk. On Sunday the president spoke briefly with his son, Maj.

John Eisenhower, stationed with the army at Fort Belvoir, Va., who flew here from Washington in the presidential plane Columbine.

Other visitors included the president's wife, who has been staying in a room across the hall in the hospital's four-room tower suite where Mr. Eisenhower is confined. His mother-in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud, spent an hour and a half with her daughter and grandson at the hospital early Sunday evening but did not see the president. Except for doctors and nurses, only Mrs. Eisenhower and their son have been admitted to the president's room.

No thought, at least for the time being, was being given to moving the president to another hospital.

Doctors, Nurses Nearby

The president naps frequently but when he is awake chats with the doctors and nurses.

An army nurse is on duty in the immediate vicinity of the president at all times, either in the room or just outside, to keep watch on his respiration when he is beneath the oxygen tent. The four doctors in immediate attendance are in a room just a few steps down the hall.

Prayerful wishes for speedy recovery of the president, who will be 65 Oct. 14, poured into the temporary White House from all over the world.

The messages included a cable from Queen Elizabeth.

But at Fitzsimons Army Hospital, where Eisenhower was taken Saturday afternoon, there was no thought of the tremendous political impact of the heart seizure, which stunned the country and people around the globe.

That concern—and it is huge—was left to Republican party leaders, who until the President was stricken, had almost unanimously refused to entertain the idea he might not be available for a second term.

It seemed to have raised an overriding likelihood that Eisenhower would decide against seeking re-election. He said himself last Aug. 4 the state of his health would be an important factor in his decision.

Two weeks ago he told Republican chairmen from 48 states to dismiss from their minds the idea of the indispensable man—and not to "pin your flag ... tightly to one mast ..."

Because, Eisenhower added, "humans are frail and they are mortal."

Nixon Chances Poor, Experts Say

Vice-president Richard Nixon appears to command the greatest party organization of any potential Republican presidential candidate.

Some of the ablest Republican strategists said that, as of today, Nixon is second only to Eisenhower in popularity with the party's state chairmen, governors and others who will play a major role in the selection of delegates to the San Francisco nominating convention next year.

However, these same strategists do not believe Nixon would be able to make a major bid for the nomination without the active support of Eisenhower himself.

Neither are they sure that Nixon could win top place on the ticket even with Eisenhower's help.

Despite all the political breaks Eisenhower has tossed to Nixon, party leaders do not rule out the possibility that the President eventually might choose a more mature colleague to receive his support for the nomination.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, who tried to take himself out of consideration for the nomination last April, and Treasury Secretary George Humphrey are

CCF Executive Still Backs Buttle Dam

The B.C. executive council of the CCF reiterated its 1952 stand today in supporting the B.C. Power Commission Buttle Lake project.

Frank Snowsall, Saanich high school teacher and member of the provincial CCF executive made the announcement following an executive meeting.

"More people will benefit from the development of additional publicly-owned power. The power commission is owned by the people and so is Buttle Lake."

WANT PUBLIC POWER

"If the power resources owned by the people are not developed, the only other major source is the B.C. Electric." He added that the provincial CCF favors, as it did in 1952, the utilization of public resources rather than the purchase of power from a private interest.

He said the provincial executive laid plans for the arrival in B.C. Oct. 20 of the national CCF leader, M. J. Coldwell. He plans to speak in 11 B.C. points, but Port Alberni will be the only centre he will visit on Vancouver Island.

Mr. Snowsall said that the Saanich CCF organization is planning a group visit to Port Alberni for the occasion.

A dinner for Mr. Coldwell will be held in Vancouver by the provincial executive Oct. 28. Mr. Coldwell will at that time honor Angus MacInnis, MP for Vancouver Kingsway, who marks his 25th year as an elected member this year. Mr. Coldwell will make a presentation on behalf of the national executive of the party.

Japan to Build Liners

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's biggest prewar shipping firm today announced plans to build two trans-Pacific luxury passenger liners next year with government funds.

Diplomats' Private Lives To Get Airing in Commons

LONDON (UP)—Capt. Henry Kerby, a Conservative member of parliament, demanded a full scale public inquiry into the Burgess-MacLean case Sunday. He said both men were "known as drunks and sex perverts for years."

"It is not as if their homosexual activities were known only to a handful of people," he said.

Kerby claimed the Foreign Office was deliberately covering up sordid details of the private lives of missing diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald MacLean who disappeared behind the Iron Curtain four years ago.

A Foreign Office white paper Friday gave details of the early lives of the men and the Foreign Office discovery they were Soviet agents but made no mention of suspicions they were sex perverts.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and poisons stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's helps the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

RED ENGINEERS DREAM OF UNFREEZING ARCTIC

LONDON (UP)—Radio Moscow said today that Russian "engineers with imagination" are considering an "atomic engineering" project to reclaim Arctic wastelands by damming up the Bering Strait and pumping warm Pacific water into the Arctic Ocean.

The broadcast said North America and Europe would share in the benefits as well as the Soviet Union. "What is now barren and frozen wilderness would blossom with fields and orchards and sparkle with myriads of electric lights," the broadcast said.

Unification 'Must' Big Three Agree

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States, Britain and France have agreed that a unified Germany must be included in any Allied-Communist pact on European security.

On the eve of Big Three talks in New York, diplomats were very pessimistic, however, that the Allies can break through Russia's objections to German unification.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay met in New York Tuesday and Wednesday to discuss the unification problem and other matters which will be considered at the Oct. 27 Geneva conference with Russia, German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano will sit in on the New York meetings when the big three discuss German problems.

The Big Three also will discuss disarmament—particularly the effect of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's recent letter to President Eisenhower on the disarmament problem.

Mr. Eisenhower was expected to reply early this week to the Bulganin letter. The Soviet premier accepted the president's dramatic plan for aerial photography and exchange of military blueprints but insisted these moves should be accompanied by steps toward actual disarmament.

$17 Million B.C. Whisky Case Brings Jail, Fines for Trio

NEW YORK (AP)—Three men were sentenced to federal court Saturday to prison terms ranging from two to four years and fined a total of $18,000 for conspiring to obstruct the treasury department in collecting more than $17,000,000 in taxes.

Execution of sentence was withheld by the court, however, to allow counsel for the trio time to appeal to the circuit court or have the conviction set aside.

Hyman Harvey Klein of Los Angeles and Baltimore was sentenced to four years and fined $8,000; Morris Alprin, a Brooklyn attorney, was fined $6,000 and sentenced to three years; Maurice Haas, a Mount Vernon, N.Y., lawyer, received a two-year jail term and was fined $4,000.

The three were among nine men indicted May 11, 1954, on the conspiracy charge involving income tax payments on profits on a wartime whisky deal.

Asst. U.S. Attorney Arnold Bauman brought out during the trial that the accused whisky dealers had siphoned off profits on Harwood whisky by setting up at least 16 different dummy corporations in Cuba and Panama and, through an involved scheme, had hidden "huge profits."

Harwood's Canadian whisky was manufactured in Vancouver, B.C.

RAIL TOTALS $30,000 Klein was freed in $15,000 bail; Alprin in $10,000 and Haas in $5,000, pending their appeal.

Three Vancouver businessmen were named in the indictment by the grand jury in New York in May, 1954, charging tax evasion in income taxes.

They were George W. Norgan, Isadore J. Klein and Albert L. McLennan, all directors of United Distilleries of Canada.

Death of Logger Found Accidental CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—The death of Richard Deslauniers, 42, who was killed Friday when he was hit by a log, was ruled accidental by a coroner's jury here Saturday.

The killer storm, already packing 75-mile-an-hour winds and still growing, appeared to be the most powerful hurricane of the season. The San Juan, P.R., weather bureau said it was heading on a generally westward course across the open sea.

SCRAMBLING BACK aboard their landing craft after a successful demolition raid, riflemen waded into the surf Saturday under cover of swooping fighter planes while navy frigates standing by continued to shell the shore and generate protective smoke. Part of the large crowd which watched the combined operation can be seen at upper left. Explosions still tore the air, controlled by Capt. Robert MacDiarmid, 3rd Field Squadron, RCE. His men laid more than five miles of electrical cable, fired a total 220 pounds of TNT in 35-40 detonations. It took 15 sappers three hours to set out the explosives. (Times Photos by Strickland.)

Dropped from the frigate HMCS Ste. Therese, 30 men of 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, Camp Gordon Head, clambered down landing nets prior to the assault on Ocean Beach, Metchosin.

Men of the same party shown at left were on their way back to the ship within a half hour of leaving it, and had two prisoners to show for the success of the landing. A rifleman holds weapon on pair.

QOR Riflemen Hit Ocean Beach In Explosive, Efficient 'Raid'

By AB KENT
Times Military Reporter

We hit the beach at H-hour plus two, just two minutes after the first wave of troops landed on Ocean Beach Saturday in a large-scale war game called Sea Serpent I.

It was only a game, but the element of realism pervaded throughout. The three branches of the service manoeuvred, detonated several hundred pounds of explosives, fired thousands of rounds of small arms ammunition, laid smoke screens, captured and demolished a simulated defended enemy installation.

tion and withdrew suffering only two casualties.

I was with headquarters company of the 190-man force of Queen's Own Riflemen—the bulk of raiding troops embarked from frigates Ste. Therese and Jonquiere about a mile off Metchosin gravel pits.

Upwards of 2,500 civilian and military personnel were poised there to get a front-line view of the operation.

Job of the 30 men in our landing assault craft, flanked by two other craft, was to climb 300 feet up a near-perpendicular incline to an enemy guided missile station.

They were to make off with a piece of vital equipment and take whatever prisoners they could. Still, blow it up.

The first wave was nearing the beach in two LCAs as we clambered down nets from the afterdeck of Ste. Therese and ducked into the hollow craft.

Then we were nearing the surf as small arms began to rattle on the left flank and the crump of simulated mortar fire belched earth and smoke out of the centre of operations.

Our men, including commanding officer the Second Battalion QOR's, Lieut.-Col. W. H. V. Matthews, Maj. J. L. McCulloch, Maj. H. S. Johnson and Lieut. William Creve were tensed as if for the real thing.

We hit, leaped out on the barge, dashed across the sand and flung ourselves behind the cover of logs. Thundering explosions sped up ahead of us. It was the navy shelling the shore defences.

Officers and platoon leaders shouted above the roar "Get with it!" and "Let's go!" to send our men clambering up ropes dangling from trees on the brink of the low cliff 100 yards from the beach.

With another reporter I followed Maj. Johnson to the cliff, earth-concealed blasts rocking the air about our ears. Far out of condition, I staggered panting up the slope as the CO's party gained a small building covering by flanking parties and riflemen of HQ group.

Two prisoners were already on their way down, hands clasped atop their Russian-type helmets, covered by intelligence officer Lieut. Creve.

Behind us now, enemy mortar fire landed in an arc as our own fire from rifles and Bren guns held off a counter-attack by defenders.

I crawled forward, belly to the dirt, to watch the enemy regroup, but could see none. A Bren stuttered five feet ahead and a sergeant barked on my right.

Suddenly the air was full of concussion, clouds of dirt, chunks of wood and a pillar of smoke and dust like an atomic mushroom, and debris began falling around us.

The demolition party had blown up the objective 200 feet behind us.

Smoke and dust obscured most of the hill as we plunged backward.

Still breathless we threw ourselves into the LCA's and watched the navy lay smoke as five Vampire jets whistled out of the sky in support of our withdrawal. They were followed by six Mustangs and five Harvards.

From the time we left Ste. Therese, 30 minutes had elapsed, about seven minutes faster than planned.

Medics counted six casualties—four scheme and two actual, wounded by splinters in the scrub. No men were taken prisoner.

Apart from a holed LCA which came close to sinking with all hands aboard, the operation went off without a hitch. Col. Matthews said simply:

"From the point of view of the exercise, it was good."

Minor improvements may be made next Saturday where locale of the scheme—Sea Serpent II—will be Jericho Beach, Vancouver, when destroyers Cayuga and Athabaskan will take part in the place of the frigates.

In place of Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), which contributed 20 men to the exercise, Seaforth's Canada will be used.

Peron Escorted To Paraguay

Argentina Settles Down As Ex-Dictator Flees Country

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Argentina went back to work today with the revolution over, a new president firmly in power and ex-president Juan Peron fleeing the country at full steam.

Peron was sailing up the River Plate on a Paraguayan gunboat, heading for exile in Paraguay. He left Sunday night after receiving promises of safe conduct.

Even in Rosario, an industrial city 200 miles west of here where Peronista workers engaged in two days of savage clashes with troops, labor delegates who conferred with Gen. Leon Bengoa, chief of the federal police, promised that work would be resumed today.

Bengoa assured the labor leaders that the new revolutionary government under President Eduardo Lonardi was determined to defend labor interests.

Argentine sources said the ship carrying Peron would be given a naval escort through the 700 miles of Argentine river waters on the 900-mile voyage to Asuncion, capital of Paraguay.

Informed sources here said Paraguay had granted asylum to Peron on condition that he does not stay too long.

Seeking evidence of fraud, corruption and illicit funds, the new government sealed safety deposit boxes and limited, with- draws from checking and savings accounts.

An army source said Carlos Alon, one of Peron's closest business associates, and his brother had been seized in northern Argentina with satchels filled with 16,000,000 pesos — more than $1,000,000. The army source said the Aloes were headed for Paraguay.

Department manager A. Wright said that advance sale was "the best ever" for a Canadian book.

President and Friend

THE ILLNESS OF ANY AMERICAN President must always be a matter of grave concern to the entire world. It is not only a personal misfortune but a political fact of first magnitude. In the case of Mr. Eisenhower it will also be the cause of genuine grief among countless million Americans and foreign people who have never met him but who have learned to admire him.

"I Like Ike"—once merely a campaign slogan of the Republican Party—takes on a new and poignant meaning when this man is stricken. No former President has enjoyed such popularity at home. Few have so captured the friendship of the world public.

It is tragic, indeed, that illness should have struck at the very apex of his career when great business of his making was under way, when so much importance to his own nation and all the free nations hangs on his power, his goodwill and his unique talents of leadership.

While the world will pray for his quick recovery it seems evident that he will require some time for convalescence. Inevitably in his absence the momentum of his policies will be impeded by a constitutional system which invests so much authority in one man. His illness is a shattering political fact which the Republican party must face.

The disadvantages of the U.S. system under the conditions of modern life, are clearly revealed in Mr. Eisenhower's illness. He is the victim of responsibilities, anxieties and a working schedule too onerous for human flesh to bear. But he is a man of extraordinary strength both physical and intellectual and it is to be expected that he will survive better than most men a misfortune resulting from his long and devoted public service. The world knows that he is ill solely because he sought to serve humanity. Nameless people everywhere will anxiously await his return to health not only as an American President but as a friend.

Voluntarily Limited Rights

THE CASE OF GUY BURGESS and Donald Maclean, foreign office experts who four years ago left England presumably for Russia with high priority atomic secrets, is still bedeviling the British Government. The revelations of an ex-Soviet spy in Australia have renewed interest in the affair and the Government is faced with some difficult questions when Parliament assembles next month.

It has been admitted that the two men had access to top level information, that they were suspected of being spies and in fact were under secret investigation at the time of their disappearance. It was later discovered that they had been recruited to the communist cause in their youth, while still attending Oxford. They had therefore been living double lives throughout their rather successful diplomatic careers.

But the Government asserts that since the men had not been charged, since they had not been proved guilty of any wrong, there was therefore no basis for restricting their movements at home or prohibiting them from leaving the country. They crossed the Channel to France ostensibly for a week-end and have not been seen on this side of the iron curtain since.

The sanctity of individual rights is a fundamental part of British law and the British way of life. Any departure from this principle under normal conditions could not be tolerated. But the question arises as to whether a situation involving cold war and vital defence secrets can be considered "normal."

Betrayal of secret atomic information could place a nation in a fatal position as regards its international enemies. A job of espionage such as Burgess and Maclean perpetrated could conceivably result in the ruin of Britain, perhaps its total destruction in an atomic war.

In view of such considerations, does a question of national safety, even survival, alter the validity of the principle of individual rights? It would be a momentous decision to answer "yes." Immediately the cry would go up that it is better for occasional guilty ones to escape than for innocent persons to run the risk of detention before being charged.

That is a principle that was broken in the case of Canada's Gouzenko spy episode. The RCMP seized and held incommunicado for several hours some of the principal agents who later were charged with espionage. Britain did not take this step, even though greater issues may have been at stake.

But the Burgess-Maclean case contains a different element from the Canadian incident. These two men were employees of the Crown. As such they really had ambivalent attitudes—that of the common man who should enjoy all the rights of free individuals, and that of the man who has voluntarily taken on the responsibilities of work for the state, has been entrusted with important secrets and who by reason of his vital position in the security of the state must expect surveillance and possible detention for investigation.

On this reasoning would not the Government be justified in temporarily preventing a man from going abroad, merely on the grounds of suspicion that the national security was endangered—a step which could not be condoned in the case of an individual who was not entrusted with the vital secrets of his country.

Much of the current furor over the case arises from the suspicion that the Government would have acted in this manner if it had been alert, but that the two agents escaped not because it was feared a principle would be violated but because there was bumbling and incompetence in security measures, and the long delay in making a public announcement was merely an attempt to cover up inefficiency.

Robot to Robot—Fire!

THE SO-CALLED MECHANIZED form of warfare seems to have taken a giant stride ahead according to descriptions of the new automatic air defence system being developed in the United States. This represents push-button war carried even to the point where a robot pushes the buttons.

While the planners of the system make no concrete claims for its effectiveness, it is believed capable of accounting for 90 per cent of attacking aircraft—a toll considered impossible until recently.

Though there may be some question as to whether 90 per cent is high enough in case of an atomic war, when even one per cent that slipped through could ruin the defending country, there can be no doubt that a very formidable defence is being prepared.

From information flashed from patrolling planes, radar networks—such as the Dew Line and other detection lines strung across Canada—and picket ships at sea, an electronically controlled defence plan can be set up.

The attacking planes will be spotted and tracked, their speed, location, altitude and other facts sent instantly to huge electronic brains which will correlate the information and distribute it to defensive formations. The defending planes will be guided automatically to the enemy, their guns can be fired by ground control, and all information can be "remembered" and passed along by one subsector brain to another.

These complicated processes will take only a fraction of a second. The battle might be over before a human thumb could find and push the button.

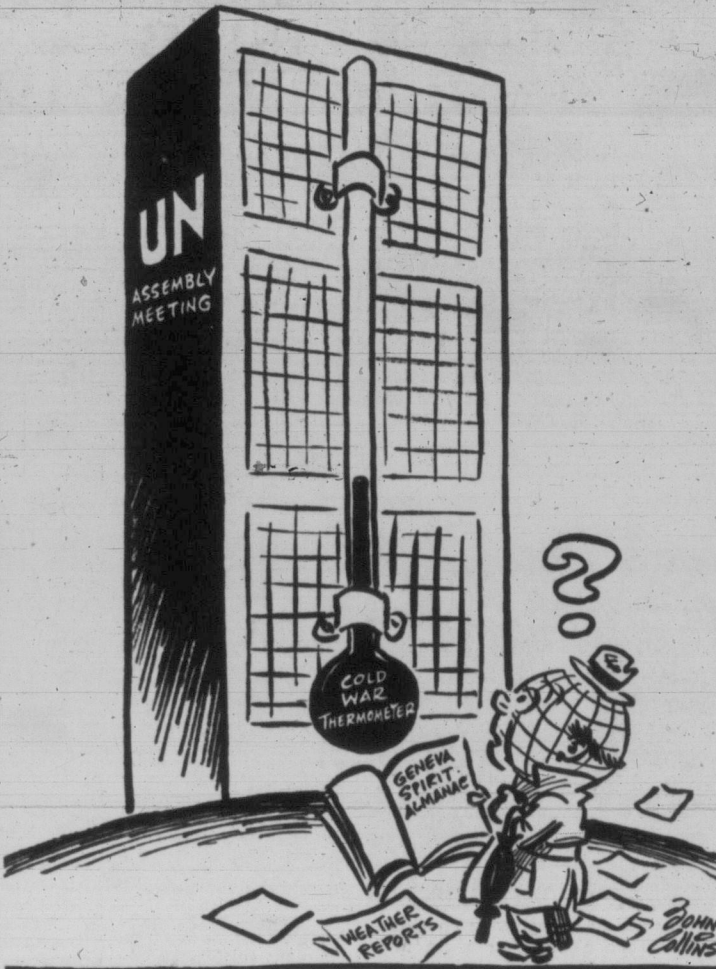

While such preparations may encourage a feeling of security among the people of this continent, it must be remembered that offensive weapons are similarly being improved. The guided missile, the inter-continental rocket with atomic warhead—such modes of attack, while not yet perfected, are on the way. Against some of them, employing terrific speeds through space many miles above the earth's atmosphere, it is admittedly almost impossible to defend a target.

What is the future, then, for 'he little man who has no interest in blowing up half the globe or all of it, but wants merely to live out his life in peace?

Obviously his chief hope of survival is still to avoid world war. The leap-frogging progress of offensive and defensive weapons can hold no security for him.

The day may yet come when only robot defenders will kill robot attackers, or vice versa, and war will have become 100 per cent mechanized. But it may well be, too, that by that time there will be only robots left to survive.

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

I WISH somebody would compile a book of prices throughout the last few hundred years. Or, if such a book exists, tell me how to find a copy . . . and tell me if it is reliable, too. I don't want it too scholarly, and I don't want it too silly either. My encyclopedia, now five years out of date, tells me I might consult Professor Thorold Rogers' "History of Agriculture and Prices in England," which covers the whole period from the 12th to the early 18th century. It is a "remarkable pioneer work" in "seven monumental volumes." It sounds a bit heavy for me. And again, in 1929 Lord Beveridge and Professor E. F. Gay began another monumental work . . . these works sound very grave . . . far be it from me to disinter them. But with the help of the Rockefeller Foundation, the Gay-Beveridge team got so deep into the subject, they turned out only one volume by 1948, and had still another three volumes to go. When finished, if ever, this monumental work will cover just about everything in all countries. For the past 800 years. It too will have a price. Maybe I had better wait till it comes out in the Reader's Digest.

WHAT started me wondering about this subject at all was that I frequently run across tables which tell me the price of wheat in various centuries. This is a most misleading index to prices in general, since wheat was often a luxury and sometimes a great luxury . . . as it is among the very poor in Italy (for example) to this very day . . . contrary to the general impression, the very poor in Italy do not eat vast quantities of macaroni and spaghetti, they eat cornmeal . . . maize.

I was reading the other day that in 1530 in England, a bushel of wheat would cost you anything up to a shilling. For this same sum you could buy about 24 dozen new-laid eggs (in the country) . . . 288 eggs. For this same shilling you could also buy 60 pounds of cheese. Other cereals were expensive, too, in comparison with meat and eggs and cheese and so on, though rye was cheaper than wheat, and when men ate bread it was usually rye.

THE relative importance of all cereals in men's diet was low, for the cereals were all relatively costly . . . even beans cost a lot, comparatively, though they were cheaper than rye. But wheat was less important than the other cereals, for it was the most expensive and therefore luxurious. And thus it isn't much help to know the price of wheat in 1530 as an aid to knowing the cost of living and the real value of money. Wheat simply didn't enter into many people's living.

In old tables of prices I am always surprised by the relatively high cost of clothing. Towards the end of the Roman Empire, around 300 A.D., the price of a very simple tunic was equivalent to the price of 72 chickens or 180 pounds of beef. A tunic for a very poor and simple man, you understand. For a respectable bloke who fancied himself as a nifty dresser, a tunic could cost up to the equivalent of 360 chickens or 900 pounds of beef. It could cost no more, for there were ceiling prices. But it sounds like a terrific price for a tunic. And this fantastic spread between the price of food and the price of clothes was still found in the Middle Ages and later, after 1000 years and more. Mind you, the cloth was superbly made and was expected to last many years, and did. But all the same . . .

LUXURIES

HOW very odd it is to consider the things that were once luxuries and have now become cheap and common enough. For example, sugar and tea and coffee and chocolate, to name only a few. But it is even odder to consider the things that were once cheap and in daily use, and are now made costly by scarcity or high wages or some other cause . . . taxation, for instance. Beer was once a necessity, and a cheap one. In 1530 it was the universal drink. Then it became a comfort rather than a necessity, but it was still cheap. Now it is a luxury. It is still considerably cheaper than maple syrup, though! (Not that these two fluids are interchangeable at the dinner table, though I know a woman who eats maple syrup neat, from a soup plate, with a soup spoon. This sounds disgusting, and it is disgusting.)

I CAN remember when even quite hard-up fellows could take a little maple syrup on their frugal pancakes. Pure maple syrup, not flavored with some coal-tar derivative. The idea of a poor man eating maple syrup now sounds as fantastic to us as would the idea of a poor man eating wheaten pancakes sound to Henry VIII. As a young boy in a family that was economizing, I can remember wading miserably through untold gallons of rather thin Irish stew, but I can also remember legs of lamb now and then. My eldest boy is 14, and I doubt if he has seen more than three legs of lamb . . . they have become a luxury. As for the cuts of beef unknown to him . . . I am very glad he doesn't even dream they exist.

I CAN remember when people quite moderately off gave tinned salmon to their dogs, and ate it themselves to save money. Golly. As for fresh salmon, it was on many a thrifty table . . . red spring salmon. I wonder what it would cost to-day to give a family of six as much red spring salmon as it cared to eat.

Buttle and the People

GREATER VALUES

I have just heard that Buttle Lake in Strathcona Park is in danger of despoliation for commercial purposes. I have not yet visited that part of Vancouver Island but several people have told me about its great natural beauty. I hope that in the not too distant future I may be able to bring my family and my fishing rod and enjoy its charms.

We Canadians are blessed with so much wonderful country, and our past generations have been so occupied in pushing back our wilderness frontiers, that we are just beginning to realize that wilderness itself has value and that natural beauty spots may be worth more as such than through their commercial development, even by the dollar standard of measurement.

I think it was Mr. Justice Douglas of the United States Supreme Court who recently pointed out that on this continent we spend much effort and money creating refuges for animals and that it was high time we realized the importance of keeping some refuges for man himself.

This summer six of us traveled an average of 3,000 miles each in order to spend three weeks in the wilderness of northern Saskatchewan canoeing down the Churchill River. It was well worth while to get away from modern city life and enjoy the great healing and inspiration of those solitudes. Inevitably in years to come, more and more Canadians and Americans will seek recreation and enjoyment of the outdoors in Strathcona Park and our other parks and wilderness areas.

If Buttle Lake is as magnificent as claimed, surely there are enough British Columbians sufficiently interested to protect it from being sacrificed for not very much more water power. Such a success would also set a most desirable example to the rest of Canada in ensuring the integrity of our national and provincial parks from any form of violation.

MAJ.-GEN. N. E. RODGER, CBE, CD, General Officer Commanding, Prairie Command, Fort Osborne Barracks, Winnipeg.

SUPPORTING TRUE CAUSE

Congratulations to Mr. Haig-Brown on his fight to save Buttle Lake and preserve Strathcona Park. His arguments make sense, and his pleas for urgency of action sound very sincere. He asks for letters and telegrams to the premier or the minister of lands.

As a nature lover and also as an admirer of those who will stand up and fight for the true causes in this world, my letter is already on its way.

POWER, SCENERY, COAL

Last month I had the opportunity of visiting the Littleton Development where the New England Electric system is constructing a 150,000 kilowatt hydro-electric plant on the Connecticut River. Although this system has several other dams on this river, I was informed that at the present time they would be able to produce power cheaper by a steam plant at tide-water than would be produced by this new plant.

I wonder if the B.C. Power Commission has considered erecting a light, heat and power plant at Nanaimo? Even if the cost of producing power was higher than it would be from the Buttle Lake project, the advantages gained would more than offset any higher cost. Not only would the amenities of Strathcona Park be observed but a ready market would be provided for coal that could be mined in this area.

LINN A. GALE.

FOR POSTERITY

I am writing you with reference to the efforts of the Power Commission to destroy Strathcona Park through raising the water level of Buttle Lake some 34 feet.

Strathcona Park was dedicated to the people of British Columbia in 1911 by a far-seeing group of legislators, who realized that the day would come when parks in British Columbia would be at a premium. This park lies in one of the most beautiful settings in the province and will be, as time goes on, one of the main attractions of Vancouver Island for the residents who desire to get out of doors, as well as to the tourists visiting the Island.

Buttle Lake is the main spawning ground for the famous Campbell River fishing stream and these spawning grounds will be destroyed by the flooding, and as a result the fishing in the whole river will be affected.

The Power Commission has had plenty of notice and opportunities to construct the dam at Upper Campbell River and if they had taken the advice of eminent engineers in 1950 the demand for power would not have resulted. If the Power Commission had started at that time on the construction of this dam it would have provided all of the power and water storage that would be necessary for this development.

There is a very grave doubt in many people's minds that with the great amount of water that the plant is now requiring there will ever be water enough produced by the Campbell River watershed to fill the reservoir that they are trying to create.

It is my hope that Buttle Lake will be left in its primitive stage for the benefit of posterity.

CLIVE MCKAY.
3451 Emerald, North Vancouver, B.C.

INDIVIDUALS OR THE PUBLIC

It's great to see Premier Bennett placing the issue of Buttle Lake exactly where it should be. It's clearly a case of an individual trying to make money talk but at the public's expense if successful.

After reading the statement of Liberal M.L.A. Gregory who recently visited the lake at the expense of Mr. Reid, it's understandable why the Liberal party is in the sad position it is today.

Apparently Mr. Gregory after one trip to the lake is now an expert who indirectly criticizes ex-Liberal Premier Hart and his cabinet, founders of the John Hart hydro plant, who I'm sure were fully aware that their decision to commence this project in the public interest, would result in the first stage in the damming of Buttle Lake.

Keep up the good work Premier Bennett—don't pull any punches.

EX-LIBERAL JOHN HARVEY.
Saltair, B.C.

QUAINT MONUMENT

While Strathcona Park was deeded to the public for recreational purposes in 1911, successive governments in this province have failed to provide the public with the means of reaching it unless by air or a disused trail. As a result none but a favored few have ever seen it.

But a few days ago one of our local members, George Gregory, with many of the city council visited the park and saw Buttle Lake for the first time. They are now, after this view and investigation, all of the opinion it would be wanton desecration to destroy what is possibly the most beautiful scenery in all B.C. They are further satisfied that the present scheme for raising the level of the lake would in fact destroy it.

Our premier certainly, in spite of his speech about democratic processes, the nearest imitation of a dictator I have observed in my 43 years residence in the province, is in a hurry to destroy this portion of the public domain. I believe I am correct in stating neither he, his cabinet nor the members of the Legislature have ever inspected, probably even from a distance, have ever seen Buttle. They seemingly do not care. Everything must be sacrificed; anything in the way of natural beauty destroyed to satisfy this craving for power—hydro-electric power.

I am of course aware it would be a waste of time to point out to the premier the appalling responsibility he assumes in destroying something—a thing of beauty for future generations—centuries of growth cannot replace.

Power—Power Commission power—must be developed for so-called immediate needs. No scheme to preserve this lake and at the same time develop Upper Campbell River with adequate power for present needs, and such schemes are possible, will satisfy him. Buttle Lake must be destroyed. The Oracle has spoken.

It is our misfortune to live under a regime where one man has the power to do such irreparable damage. Maybe when he has left this scene he may be best remembered as the man who destroyed Buttle Lake. A quaint monument to one's memory.

Buttle and the Legislature

Having first written with regard to the damming of Buttle Lake as long ago as 1931 I have followed what has happened since with anxious interest.

It is a mistake, however, to regard this matter as a matter of party politics because this is not so in any respect. As far as criticism of the present government is concerned it must be borne in mind that the initial plan to dam the lake was conceived by a prior government and it is only since the matter was first proposed that the original plan has now been considerably modified.

It must be a surprise to those who have been opposed for so long to the damming of the lake to find that only at this late date have some members of the Legislature felt disposed to take a critical stand with regard to the question.

The fact must be very apparent that all the 48 members of three Legislatures have had this matter brought before them in all its details and that none of them until now have taken any public stand whatsoever with regard to it. First there was the Legislature which sat with the Coalition government, then the Legislature which sat in the first Bennett regime, and now the present Legislature.

Two CCF members recently made statements that the committee which sat in the Legislature in 1933 was not unanimous in its decision and that the actual vote in favor of the present damming was 7 to 3. One of them states that there was something of a "gentlemen's agreement" between members of the committee that they would not disclose to the public the division mentioned.

A strange thing to hear from a representative of the people especially in connection with a matter which has been so controversial. If any minority opinion was so held there has been ample time for those who did not agree with the report to bring the matter up publicly either in the Legislature or out of it but they have refrained until now from adopting such a course.

As the legality of the proposed damming may shortly be brought before the courts there will be no purpose in entering into any discussion as to what possible points of law may be involved or whether the contemplated proceedings are available. Suffice it to say that should the attempt to block the damming be successful by reason of injunction or otherwise it would not be difficult for the government to provide effective legislation to override any decision based on the law as it might exist with reference to the matter.

When two governments in succession adhere to a policy one must come to the conclusion that it is a policy which is conceived by the people's representatives to be in the best interest and the general economy of the province.

While I have come to the reluctant conclusion that this is so I wish to emphasize that I still most sincerely support any and every effort to save the park from any interference whatsoever and I only hope that some means might be found to provide a substitute for the presently contemplated source of power.

I have in the past urged that consideration be given to meet the demand by the generation of power by means of steam. I am convinced it could be done by the use of coal or oil and it may not be long now before oil will be available in great quantities and even if there may be some delay surely that delay could be bridged in some way.

Have You Seen Them?

YOU may have seen her hands. For she's just an ordinary, middle-aged wife-and-mother, and there are many like her in every Canadian town.

They're not beautiful hands, exactly, if you only think of beauty in terms of glamor. Because they're not glamorously any more. But, humanly, they are beautiful, though they've only done the ordinary, humdrum tasks of everyday.

They've washed clothes, and hung them on the line and brought them in again. They've folded diapers, and patched jeans, and ironed an endless stream of different garments.

They've washed dishes, hundreds and thousands of dishes. They have, in a half-sleep, cut children's school lunches in what seemed like the dim, dim dawn.

They have, in youth, caressed a beloved body with fierce and wondering passion. They have, with tenderness, supported the dark-haired, wobbling head of a tiny infant. They've stroked with gentle awe the darling softness at the nape of a baby's neck.

In moments of maternal wrath, they've smacked the chubby buttocks of a deliberately tiresome and defiant child.

They've made lists, countless lists—of shopping errands and Christmas letters, and the immediate chores that must be done.

They've written notes, thousands of notes—to school teachers about homework, and dentist appointments, and the feverish cold that kept the child at home in bed. They've written happy, loving notes to friends who are getting married, and notes of sadness and comfort to those who are sick, or hurt, or new-born.

They've sewn, they've darned, they've knitted. They've cooked. Migosh, how they have cooked!

Fortified by love, they've done the most sordid, sickroom tasks, and coped with hurts that range from minor bumps to broken bones.

They've opened letters which brought happiness and joy, and other letters which brought grief, or rage, or sore distress.

They've held the shuddering, sobbing bodies of forlorn or frightened children. All this they've done, and a host of other nameless tasks besides.

They're not perfect hands by any means. For, on occasion they've done those things they ought not to have done, and left undone those things which they most certainly should have done.

But, by and large, they're good hands of which the owner can be proud.

One day, they will be pale and still in death. I hope, oh, how I hope, that those who fold them will do the task with kindly care, thinking for a moment of what those hands did in life.

And for Heaven's sake, don't think that these are my hands. They're not. For mine are impractical, slapdash things, often working with impatient, careless haste.

But, maybe, they're your hands, the hands that are holding this paper at this very minute. Or do they belong to someone else that you know and love?

Good Bulbs, Darkness, Coolness 'Musts' for Pot Growth in Winter

Every year thousands of bulbs are planted in pots of soil in the hope they will create an illusion of spring during the days of winter which may be a little dismal and wet.

In Victoria we do not rely solely on these flowering bulbs for winter plant interest, for we are doubly fortunate in being able to have both color and fragrance in our gardens during that period.

Nevertheless we all like to prove our skill as gardeners by growing some bulbs in pots. To be successful there are two points to be stressed. The first, to obtain top quality bulbs (the heaviest for their size) of the varieties known to be suitable.

DARK, COOL

The second point is the provision of dark, cool conditions for the six-week (the least required) rooting period after the bulbs are potted.

With attention to these two points, the kind of soil mixtures or the type of containers or the temperatures provided later are all of secondary importance.

Among the narcissi, here are a few of the readily obtained varieties known to be successful for forcing: Magnificence, trumpet, flowering January; Carlton, five inches across, early; Flower Record, white with red cup, early; John Evelyn and Monique, midseason; Cheerfulness and Geranium are later flowering (March in pots); Actaea, the snowy white perfumed poetic narcissus. The polyanthus narcissus Soleil D'Or and Paperwhite grandiflorus, the two earliest for forcing, are both bunch flowered and perfumed.

There are many others recommended, but some of the fine garden varieties will not respond to artificial heat.

An Assize Court jury Friday acquitted William Paterson of Langford, 37, discharging a firearm with intent to endanger the life of Wallace Michael Heal, 359 Island Highway, on July 5.

The jury accepted the evidence of the accused. Paterson testified he fired his rifle at a raccoon, which escaped into a thicket.

Mr. Heal claimed Mr. Paterson pointed the gun at him.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Cancer Victims Want Truth

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

In a recently published study, Dr. Otis Bowen, of Bremen, Ind., stated that 96.6 per cent of the 477 men and women who replied to his questionnaire said they would want their physician to tell them the truth if they had cancer. Some of the men said they would need to know the truth because of business responsibilities. Others wanted to have time to prepare for death, granting that death had to come.

Dr. Bowen's impression is the same as mine, to the effect that few people are fooled by the medical lie. As he said, there are a few persons who don't want to know the truth, and hence do not ask the physician what is wrong. Upon such persons I never force my opinion; if they do not want it, why should I give it?

After 50 years of practicing medicine, I am certain that truth works better than lies. It is much easier to take care of people with a serious cancer if one has told them the truth. We physicians often are very naive in that we think we have fooled the patient, perhaps after we have performed an operation of the type that is used only for cancer, and perhaps after we have ordered extensive X-ray treatment. Commonly, late at night, a patient in a hospital picks up his record just outside his door and reads it; often, also, he overhears internes and nurses and doctors talking about his cancer. Also, members of the family who have been told, spill the beans. Commonly, all a woman has to do is to glance at her husband when he comes home from the doctor: In a moment she knows what she has.

TRIED LYING — FAILED

In my younger days, I did as I had been taught and attempted some lying, but after a while I decided it was futile; I also found that my people liked me much better when I told the truth. Then they clung to me. I found that, after this, most people felt more comfortable with me; they knew I had told them the worst, and hence there was nothing more to fear. They knew they could come to me and get the truth again when they feared a recurrence. Best of all, later, when I told them I saw no sign of a recurrence; they could believe me and take heart. If I had lied at the start, they would not have believed me later.

The saddest feature about the medical lie, a feature which few of my fellow physicians seem ever to think of, is this: When an elderly man comes in with a terrible fear of cancer and I find none and tell him so, he will not believe me. Why should he, when for years he saw physicians lying to his sick father and mother and wife and brother? No; I much prefer the truth.

GOOD HOSPITALS PROTECT PATIENTS

I recently had dinner with the head of the lay board of a very fine hospital, and he was telling me how carefully the board and their pathologist (student of tissue removed from the body) review each month the reports about every bit of tissue that has been removed by the several surgeons operating in the hospital. If a surgeon recently put on the staff starts removing ovaries, appendices, uteruses and gallbladders which the pathologist reports as benign, he is quickly called on the carpet and told that he no longer may use the operating facilities of that hospital. Sometimes he is even asked to resign from the staff.

This is one reason why all intelligent persons, when going into a hospital for an operation by a surgeon whom they do not know well, should ask and find out if the institution has been accepted by the official body which passes on hospitals; they should find out if it has a governing board which watches closely to see that only men of the best training and highest integrity work in their institution.

WELL-MEANING QUACKS

In a recent release by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness there is an article warning persons to avoid eye-quacks who fool a lot of people and fleece them, and sometimes do much harm to their eyes. It is so easy for a quack to make a profit by pandering to the prejudices of those many men and women who dislike wearing glasses, or are fearful of having a needed operation for cataracts or glaucoma. Naturally, when a woman who, because of near-sightedness, has to wear rather ugly thick glasses hears that she can throw them away by a course of eye exercises, she is thrilled, and willing to pay good money for the so-called "eye training."

As Dr. Franklin M. Foote, executive director for the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, said, the "eye trainers" may be able to get a person to read a little farther down on the eye chart than he could before, but he still may not be able to see a car bearing down on him, and after he has been smashed up, it may not be much comfort to be told that he could read an eye chart well. Actually, to an expert ophthalmologist, most of the books written on the correction of vision by exercises sound like pseudo-scientific drivel. Such stuff could be written only by a person who had almost no knowledge of the physiology of the eye. As Dr. Foote said, occasionally a person who is sadly in need of immediate and expert care for an advancing glaucoma will waste so much time with an eye quack that he will lose his vision and will lose it for keeps.

Missing Airmen Return Safely To Island Base

HOLBERG, B.C. (CP)—Two airmen missing overnight from the RCAF seaplane base here were found by a ground party Sunday morning as a search plane from Vancouver was flying up the coast to join in the hunt.

The two men, whose names were not disclosed, left the base Saturday shortly after noon and planned to return about 4:30 p.m.

When the men failed to come back a search party set out at dawn Sunday.

The two men were found unharmed shortly after 9 a.m. when the search plane from Vancouver had covered only about half the 240-mile trip to this northern Vancouver island base.

There is nothing like an atmosphere of good humor in which to get acquainted they say, and that being the case,

Victoria Theatre Guild should have no difficulty making new friends during the coming week,

and warming up the affections of the old.

"The Middle Watch" appeared

an excellent choice with which to start the 1955-56 season.

This old favorite and perennial success drew a capacity audience to the Guild's Langham Court Theatre, Saturday night.

Few laughs—and the comedy

is practically a laugh-a-line affair—were wasted by the cast, except under cover of explosive audience reaction.

TO IMPROVE

This situation will no doubt greatly improve now that the players know where the waits are likely to be. The play will be repeated nightly at 8.15, through to Saturday.

Capably directed by Stan

Wade, the performance provided some positive acting highlights. Bert Williams, for example, was in truth, worth the price of admission alone. Completely at home in his part, he milked it of every drop of its ample comedy potential. He was ably seconded throughout by the rest of the cast.

Jim Logan as a sharp corporal of Marines.

Jack Rowe is a Guild actor who is making steady and interesting progress in his art. On this occasion he displayed considerable authority, character and confidence, though he lacked a logical grasp of the emotional development of the part.

MEN DOMINATE

A not always audible, but nevertheless imposing and convincing "Sir Hercules" was portrayed by Len Lauk. Generally speaking the men dominated in this piece—which is natural and should commend the production to Victoria males.

Leslie Allen, May Mulholland,

Cynthia Lauk and Margaret

Dewdney are all talented and experienced actresses but the material of the play did not provide them with anything but commonplace and run-of-the-mill opportunity.

David Mar promises to be a useful addition to the Guild's active membership, as does

Cliff Clark.

Nanaimo Man
Gets Year
For Theft

One year in prison was the sentence imposed by Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker Friday on

29-year-old John McRae Arbut-

not, of Nanaimo, who was convicted by an Assize Court jury

earlier last week of stealing

$630 from fisherman Robert

Dietterle at Sooke Aug. 8, 1954.

The expectant wife of the accused and one-year-old son were in court when Arbutnot received his sentence.

Crown evidence claimed that

Arbutnot stole the money

while Mr. Dietterle was asleep aboard his boat, following a fishing trip. The accused was convicted on circumstantial evidence.

Flying hoofs beat out the tattoo of excitement once more on Saturday as flat racing returned to the Victoria area at Sandown Park before 3,500 fans. Here in the second race Vidette Lad (2) takes an early

TEARS QUENCH LEO'S FIRE AS 30-YEAR CAREER ENDS

NEW YORK (UP)—A hard-bitten baseball guy named Leo Durocher almost broke down and cried when it came time for him to leave the game. Silently, with the strain showing in the lines of his face, the guy they called "The Lip" sat in front of his locker in the dressing room and shook hands with each of the New York Giant players as they walked up to him. "The Lip" muttered a low "so long" to each.

Next week, skinny Bill Rigney, the one-time Giant infielder who managed Minneapolis of the American Association this year, will arrive in town to take over as the Giants' new manager. Durocher, is moving on to other, yet-unannounced fields.

Esks Win 14th, To Meet Lions

(Compiled From UP and CP Dispatches) The indomitable Edmonton Eskimos, sweeping everything before them in Canadian football's mightiest flood, rolled into Vancouver today bent on adding extra dimensions to their newly-established record for consecutive victories.

The undefeated, untied Grey Cup champions were pitted against British Columbia's trouble-making Lions in one of two night games on tap in the western conference. A win would make it 10 in a row for the national titlists in league play this fall and give them a string of 15 consecutive triumphs dating back through the pre-season exhibition schedule to last November's playoff battles.

The powerhouse Edmonton Eskimos set an all-time Canadian professional record Saturday by blanking the Calgary Stampeders 15-0 on quarterback Jackie Parker's pair of touchdowns and tackle Bob Dean's two conversions and 30-yard field goal.

The triumph in an otherwise lackluster game at Calgary's Mewata Stadium, enabled the Esks to surpass the old record of 13 straight victories set by the same Stampeders in their 1948 march to the national crown.

Calgary fumbles set up Parker's first-quarter touchdown and Dean's field goal in the second quarter. Halfback Rolfe Miles' interception of a Stevenson pass in the third quarter paved the way for the second Parker touchdown. Dean kicked his 30-yard field goal after Stampeders halfback Baz Nagle intercepted a Parker pass but fumbled on the next play. Dean tried another from a tough angle later in the quarter but was short.

A crowd of close to 30,000 was expected at Empire Stadium for the game tonight. The injury-riddled Stampeders were matched against the equally-lousy Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Winnipeg in the other half of tonight's program. On the outcome rested undisputed possession of fourth place.

The Bombers remained mired in a fourth-position deadlock with the Cowboys Saturday night when they dropped a 12-7 decision to the Roughriders in Regina. Fullback Bobby Marlow and halfback Ken Carpenter scored touchdowns for the Roughriders. One was converted by end Joe Aguirre, who also scored a single on one of his two unsuccessful field goal attempts.

JAMES SCORED Homebrewed halfback Gerry James scored the only Winnipeg touchdown. It was converted by quarterback Buddy Leake, who was also credited with kicking a single after he tried a field goal from 20 yards out. The Bombers blew a 7-0 second-quarter lead.

It was Winnipeg's seventh loss in nine starts and the fifth win in nine outings for the Roughriders. Marlow on the ground and Larry Ibell taking passes from quarterback Frank Tripucka were the main ground-gainers in the touchdown marches. James did most of the ball totting to pave the way for the Winnipeg touchdown.

Ti-Cats Thump Als; Argos Wallop Riders By THE CANADIAN PRESS Hamilton Tiger-Cats scored two touchdowns in less than four minutes Saturday to defeat Montreal Alouettes 22-13 and advance into a first-place tie with the Als in the Big Four football union. Two touchdown passes, the first scored by Ti-Cats this season, gave them the decision.

It was an uphill battle most of the way before 15,396 fans at Hamilton's Civic Stadium and the triumph avenged a 38-20 pasting Ti-Cats took from Als a week before in Montreal. Behind a 13-4 at the end of the third quarter, the big black and yellow team called on its hitherto indifferent aerial offensive to post its third victory in five starts. Als and Tiger-cats now have six points each, two up on Ottawa and Toronto who are in a second-place tie following Argonauts' 30-9 triumph over the Rough Riders in Ottawa.

WIRKOWSKI LOOKS SHARP Quarter Nobby Wirkowski, an Argonaut castoff, sparked the Tiger-Cats in their fourth-quarter offensive. The American had so-so luck in the air this year but he clicked with two long payoff passes to Ron Howell, a product of Hamilton junior football, and imported end Frank McDonald. Wirkowski pitted out to Steve Oneschuk, up from intercollegiate ranks this season, and the

It was a great day at Sandown Park Saturday when close to 4,000 racing enthusiasts made the beautiful scenic trip out to Sidney for the first day of the 14-day meeting to pour $57,380 through the mutuels.

In contrast to the all-business-like hustle and bustle of the Vancouver tracks, Sandown was happy as a picnic.

True, the going was, in the words of the form chart "dry and deep" and the races were run in slow times.

But that made little difference. Competition was keen, the race conditions complied with a highly-skilled racing secretary with the result that finishes in most instances were close enough for excitement.

The absence of Magic Note "Queen of the B.C. Turf" took something from the glamor of the feature race, the B.C. Handicap for $1,000 and a sterling rose bowl.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees had only one player problem two days before the series opens—the condition of his centrefield star, Mickey Mantle. Mantle pulled a muscle in his thigh Sept. 23 and hasn't played since.

Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers had three questionable pitchers—right handers Carl Erskine and Billy Loes and southpaw Johnny Podres, who have been of little use since mid-season because of injuries.

Dodger ace, Don Newcombe, with a 2-5 record, will face southpaw Ed (Whitey) Ford in the first game. Ford has won 18 games and lost seven.

For the second game, Stengel will call on the other lefty, Tommy Byrne, a 16-game winner. Stengel believes his two southpaws have a better chance of beating the right handed power-laden Dodgers in the little Yankee Stadium instead of the big Yankee Stadium.

Stengel would like to start Bob Grim, a 20-game winner in his freshman season last year, in the third game for he believes his sidearm breaking stuff would beat the Dodgers. But he may need Grim for relief for the first two games and in that event it will be either Don Larsen or Bob Turley for the third game.

Dodgers clinched their pennant Sept. 8, the earliest date in history. And New York Yankees pulled away in the final week after one of the closest battles in years.

PLAYED UNTIL THE END To look at the final day's games, you would think the pennant depended on every pitch.

Of the 10 games Sunday, three were shutouts, two one-run performances and three two-run games.

Dodgers, warming up their hurriers for the world series opening Wednesday, used Johnny Podres, Russ Meyer, Clem Labine and Roger Craig in shutting out Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0.

Art Fowler of Cincinnati Reds legs checked Cubs with four hits while his mates slapped around three Chicago pitchers for a 13-0 decision. Billy Pierce of Chicago White Sox limited Kansas City Athletics to three hits in a 5-0 win.

George Susce of Boston Red Sox defeated Yankees 8-1 in the second game of a doubleheader after the American League champions had won the opener 9-2 with Bob Turley, Bob Grim and Johnny Kucks sharing the mound duties.

New York Giants beat Phillies 5-2 with Willie Mays hitting his 51st homer and then dropped a 3-1 decision to Philadelphia as they were checked by Curt Simmons and Jack Meyer.

COMPARING SERIES RIVALS

Dodger Power Vs. Yank Bench

By NORMAN MILLER, United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—No team in baseball can match the Brooklyn Dodgers' impressive batting figures. But World Series history shows the New York Yankees have beaten such power-laden rivals by manager Casey Stengel's skillful manipulation of his outstanding bench.

The Dodgers led both leagues in team batting average with .271, in runs scored (849) and in home runs (201), in games played through mid-week. Not only that, but their total of 78 stolen bases also is high for both leagues.

The Yankees don't have to apologize for their offensive, even though it doesn't measure up to the Dodgers' on paper. New York's team batting mark is only .260, but the club topped the American League with 172 homers and stole 52 bases.

In the important matter of reserve strength, however, the Yankees are far superior. Irv Noren or Elston Howard, Bill Skowron, Eddie Robinson, Andy Carey, Bob Cerv, Phil Rizzuto and Jerry Coleman give Stengel, the master lineup juggler, a degree of maneuverability that time and again has won important games.

This diversity in depth generally calls for different types of strategy by the rival managers. Walt Alston usually relies on his overpowering top-to-bottom batting order to produce plenty of runs. Stengel most of the time platoons at two or three positions, waits for the opportune time and then moves in with his excellent pinch-hitters.

Although the Dodgers go in more for base-stealing, the clubs are about even in speed. Both also are good hit-and-run teams, with Brooklyn given a slight edge chiefly because of Pee-wee Reese and Jackie Robinson.

The dimensions of the rival ballparks give the Yankees a big advantage. The Dodgers are tailor-made for their own Ebbets Field, where the shallow left-centerfield wall presents an inviting target for their prodigious inantly right-handed batting order. However, Stengel can platoon to load his lineup with rightie swingers for the games at Brooklyn. A great deal of the Dodgers' power may go to waste in the spacious left-centerfield at Yankee Stadium, where the Yankees again can platoon with left-handers to take advantage of the shorter right field distance.

The core of the Brooklyn attack is its "big four" of Roy Campanella (.320), Carl Furillo (.312), Duke Snider (.308) and Gil Hodges (.292).

Stengel has no such "murderers' row." What's more, his best long-ball hitter, Mickey Mantle, currently is hobbled by a pulled thigh muscle and may not be at peak for the series. Mantle leads the Yankee regulars in batting with a .307 average, tops the American League in homers with 37, and has knocked in 99 runs.

Next to Mantle, the Yankees' most dangerous batting threat is Yogi Berra. His average is only .275, but he has driven in 107 runs and has 27 homers. Of course, in any world series, there's usually the intangible factor of inspiration, which makes a batting menace of a normally .225 hitter. It happened in 1953 when Billy Martin of the Yankees batted .500 after a .257 regular season.

This year's series appears made-to-order for Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn, for example. He's an "old pro" who's had the worst season of his career, but is itching to bust loose in the series.

It's players like Martin and Robinson who can make season statistics appear meaningless when the series pressure takes hold.

GUTS, GOALS AND GLAMOR

'First or Fourth', Says Clancy of Leafs

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—This is the year of "guts, goals and glamor" for Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League.

In the words of Leaf general manager Hap Day: "You can't win games without guts and goals. Glamor? I'll guarantee nobody will fall asleep at our games." Leafs, seeking to build their first Stanley Cup championship team since 1950-51, have been working on Day's "Guts-goals-glamor" theory at their training camp here. They have been impressive, but the Leafs brass has yet to go overboard on them.

It's no secret that Leafs must make changes. Although they made the Stanley Cup playoffs last season, they were the lowest scoring club in the league. Critics said Leafs were so defence-minded that they took all the color out of the game.

Day admitted some of the engagements were "drab affairs." That's when he decided on the switch.

NEED GOOD PIVOT

The biggest job is to find an able replacement for Ted Kennedy, 23-year-old centre and captain who retired after Leafs were knocked out on the Stanley Cup semi-finals by Detroit in four straight games last season.

The retirement of Kennedy was supposed to be a crippling blow to Toronto. However, Leaf officials, particularly coach King Clancy, aren't so sure now.

They have brought up a promising young rookie in Bill Harris, a standout in training on the top line with leftwinger Sid Smith and rightwinger Eric Nesterenko. Harris led Toronto Mariboros to the Canadian junior hockey crown last season.

"Harris could turn out to be our best centreman since Kennedy," Day said. "I certainly hope so. He looks good."

Another junior getting plenty of raves is leftwinger Dick Duff. He had a three-game trial with Leafs in the playoffs last season and has been working well on a line centred by George Armstrong. Ted Sloan is the rightwinger. Armstrong and Sloan switched positions near the tail-end of 1954-55 and have been playing those spots so far in camp.

UP FROM PITTSBURGH

Then there's Earl Balfour, a leftwinger who saw limited action with Leafs last year when he was brought up from the farmhand Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League. Centre Rudy Mikay and rightwinger Ron Stewart are two holdovers who seem assured of retaining their positions on that line.

Other players from last year's club, which placed third in the regular schedule on 24 victories and 22 ties, include centre Bob Bailey and leftwinger Parker MacDonald. The defence probably will be unchanged this year. Tim Horton, who suffered a leg and jaw fracture late last season, is ready to go. Jim Thomson, a 19-year veteran with Leafs, Jim Morrison and Hugh Bolton will be back. Either Larry Cahan, the extra defence-man last year, or Marc Reneume, a rookie up from Pittsburgh, could wind up with the fifth rearguard job.

In goal will be Harry Lumley, a solid performer since he was acquired by Leafs in a trade with the Red Wings three years ago.

Where will Leafs wind up this season?

"First or fourth," says Clancy.

NASHUA RUNS THIRD AS HIGH GUN VICTOR

NEW YORK (AP)—Mighty Nashua stepped into handicap company for the first time Saturday and felled as the King Ranch's High Gun nipped Jet Action by a head in the $106,700 Sysonby Stakes at Belmont Park.

A crowd of 28,685 sent Nashua, the three-year-old king from William Woodward's Belair stud, off as a 3-5 favorite, but he finished third, 1 1/4 lengths behind the Maine Chance Farm's Jet Action.

Fourth in the field of five starters on a track swimming with water and mud after an overnight and all-day rain was William G. Helis Jr.'s Helioscope. This four-year-old star was 3 1/2 lengths behind Nashua, while Jack Amiel's Mr. Turf, trailed the field 22 lengths behind Helioscope.

Trabert Captures Southwest Net Title

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tony Trabert added to his laurels Sunday by shelling Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in straight sets to win the men's singles title of the 29th annual Pacific southwest tennis championships.

Trabert, the U.S. national and Wimbledon champion from Cincinnati, met little resistance as he downed Flam 6-1, 6-4, 6-2. Flam didn't have the energy that he displayed Saturday in upsetting the defending champion, Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, 9-7, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

Beverly Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., won the women's singles crown by defeating Barbara Breit of North Hollywood, Calif., 6-1, 6-4.

The Australian team of Lew Hoad and Rex Hartwig won the doubles title by defeating Trabert and Seixas 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Mrs. Fleitz and Trabert won the mixed doubles crown by defeating Darlene Hard, Montebello, Calif., and Ken Rosewall of Australia, 6-1, 9-7. Miss Breit and Miss Hard won the women's doubles finals by disposing of Mrs. Dorothy Cheney, Santa Monica, Calif., and Julie Sampson of San Marino, Calif., 6-3, 6-2.

Nancy Craig New President

Nancy Craig, who has held most of the women's championships in the Pacific Northwest, is the president of the Victoria Table Tennis Association.

She was named to succeed Keith Olson at the club's annual general meeting. Nobby Clark was named vice-president, Val Druce was named secretary, Ray Greenwood is treasurer, Art Ngai is tournament chairman and May Wong is social convener.

The first division will open its season Oct. 3 at Gibson's Bowladrome, with the second division opening play Oct. 4. Teams wishing to enter either division are requested to phone 7-2823.

Huskies Whip Gophers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Two touchdowns underdog Washington ground Minnesota into fumbling futility Saturday for a 30-0 victory, triggered by the smashing play of veteran end Jim Houston.

Houston, a junior, scored two touchdowns and set the props for a field goal with a 54-yard runback of an intercepted pass after breaking up a first-quarter Minnesota scoring threat.

B.C. TRUSTEES GATHER

Inspectors Want Homes Supplied

QUALICUM BEACH, B.C. (CP)—The 51st annual convention of the B.C. School Trustees Association moved into full swing here Sunday.

Advance registration indicated it will be one of the largest conventions in the more than half century of the organization.

In session at the same time will be the annual meeting of the B.C. Civil Administrators Association.

The convention is using the new junior high school as headquarters. School equipment suppliers have filled the community hall with displays.

Meeting of the BCSTA executive Sunday cleared the decks in a three-hour session for the busy convention which will last through Wednesday.

A new proposal not previously on the agenda was introduced when school inspectors Jack Kirk of Kimberley and M. A. Allen of Nelson, representing the School Inspectors Association, asked trustees to consider building homes for inspectors. They said their men were subject to heavy expense in buying and selling homes owing to frequent transfers.

The trustee executive was interested but felt that it should be a joint proposition with the department of education. Suggestion will be made to the convention that the department be requested to meet trustees and inspectors to explore the whole problem.

Congratulations were extended to Frank Vengiles of Oliver, who was last week elected president of the Canadian School Trustees Association during a convention in Quebec.

Lake Cowichan Legion Continues Scout Support

LAKE COWICHAN — Canadian Legion branch here, at its first meeting of the fall season, decided to continue its sponsorship of Boy Scouts and Cubs in the district.

Provincial command advised that one member had been granted a full burnt-out pension, and another a partial disability pension. J. C. Bailey, treasurer, reported an operating profit after the first six months as a licensed branch.

Committees were established to make arrangements for the annual Armistice ball and to handle the sale of poppies and wreaths. I. W. Rush, president, conducted the meeting.

Bazaar Planned

PORT RENFREW — Annual bazaar of the Port Renfrew Ladies' club will be held Nov. 9 at the Community Hall. Plans for the event were made at the regular meeting of the club at the home of Mrs. W. Fulton.

LABOR SHORTAGE HITS COWICHAN EMPLOYERS

DUNCAN—A serious shortage of labor for most lines of work exists here, the Duncan office of the National Employment Service reported in a summary for September.

Total vacancies to date are 50 per cent higher than at any time during the last 12 months, the report stated.

The large sawmills in the Cowichan district have been operating at capacity, with the few vacancies being filled readily. There are no skilled woodsmen available, it is said, and even unskilled men for the more menial woods jobs are unobtainable. Construction workers, both carpenters and laborers, are barely sufficient to meet the demand. The present state of labor deficiency is expected to continue throughout the fall months, according to the report.

Explosives Plant Workers Win Company Safety Award

JAMES ISLAND—Employees at the Canadian Industries (1954) Limited explosives works here have completed 629 injury-free days or about half-million man-hours without a lost time accident, it was announced today by R. B. Carpenter, plant manager.

This record is better than the average accident rate for high explosives plants of comparable size. The present safety record set by the James Island works qualified employees for the C.I.L. General Manager's prize and marks the fourth occasion on which the plant has won this award. The greatest number of accident-free man-hours worked by James Island was established between 1938 and 1941, when a record of 1,105,000 hours without lost time due to accident was set.

Individual prizes will be presented to the employees at a special meeting Sept. 30. The next award, the president's prize, can be won in less than 12 months if the present accident-free record is continued.

PTA Officers Installed At Brentwood

BRENTWOOD—Mrs. W. McAloney, re-elected president of Brentwood PTA, was installed in office at a ceremony conducted by Arthur Bolster in the Women's Institute hall here.

Other officers are Mrs. J. Neufeld, recording secretary; Mrs. M. Gross, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. J. Marshall, treasurer.

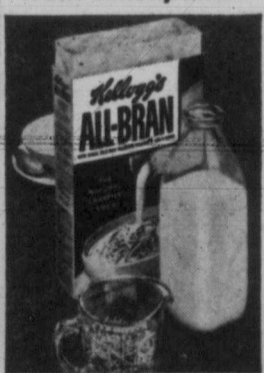

Committee chairmen are Mrs. R. Haugen, membership; Mrs. M. Jones, hospitality; Mrs. M. Nimmo, program; Mrs. G. Delbrouck, pre-school; Mrs. A. Harris, magazine; Miss M. McIntyre, historian.

Farmers Urge Weight System For Egg Sale

NAWAIMO, B.C. (CP)—A resolution calling for a new system for the sale of eggs so they would be sold on a "fair basis" was passed here Saturday at the annual meeting of District "A" Vancouver Island Farmers' Institutes of B.C.

The new system would see eggs sold on a basis of weight rather than by the dozen.

A resolution stated that in this way all eggs can be marked on a fair basis for both the seller and the purchaser and be disposed at a fair price for the producer.

KEY TO RIDDLE?

Coast Salmon Found In Offshore Waters

SEATTLE (AP)—Salmon types of gear," the FWS report said. "All five species of Pacific salmon were caught in a number of the gillnet sets. Other sets produced from one to four species. Chums were most abundant in the over-all catch, with kings least numerous."

Over 2,000 frozen salmon were brought to Seattle for racial studies, and 330 were tagged and released.

The check was made on a 12 week cruise from June 23 to Sept. 18. The experimental fishing started at sea off the northern tip of Vancouver Island, proceeded northward close to the latitude of Juneau, went west toward Kodiak Island and then south and west to the Dutch Harbor area. "Results of the exploratory fishing yielded valuable new information on the offshore distribution, abundance and availability of salmon to certain

Sioux, First and Last in Far East, Ends 40,000-Mile Grind

HMCS Sioux, first and last Canadian warship to serve with United Nations forces in the Far East, returned home Saturday, with another 40,000 miles added to her long steaming record, and a hull-load of barnacles reducing her speed by two knots.

She received a full-scale dock-side welcome from the band and honor guard of HMCS Naden, and more than 1,000 relatives and friends who crammed the jetty and swarmed over the ship to see loved ones after an 11-month separation.

Sioux, a tired old lady in need of rejuvenation treatment, will get a new Commanding Officer Tuesday, and a refit starting almost immediately.

Her new captain will be Cmdr. R. W. Murdoch, who comes here from Ottawa where he served as director of naval communications. His last command on this coast was HMCS Beacon Hill. His early home was in Victoria. Cmdr. A. H. Rankin, Sioux's present CO, leaves the ship today. He will go to HMCS Stadacona as director (RCN) of the joint maritime warfare school. Officers aboard have one word for Sioux's last UN patrol: "frustrating." They were never sure how long they'd be there and the time had to be occupied with training exercises, instead of active patrols, as on her previous tours.

Cmdr. Rankin commented briefly: "It was a long year."

But he and his first lieutenant, Lieut.-Cmdr. Frank Barclay, managed to "lay on" a series of useful training exercises with other UN fleet units.

A good many miles were covered in "hunt-kill" anti-submarine exercises. Returning from one of these Sioux was involved in a grim and earnest fleet manoeuvre—a sea-sweep over a wide area searching for two U.S. Marine flyers, whose planes were lost somewhere off the coast of Japan.

Sioux joined with U.S. warships, planes and helicopters in the hunt, without success.

At this time, she spent 23 out of 30 days at sea.

Despite the somewhat monotonous nature of Sioux's duties, officers report morale of the men as "very high." Low point was reached when it was learned the relieving ship, HMCS Glasgow, had been recalled, and it was uncertain when Sioux would return home.

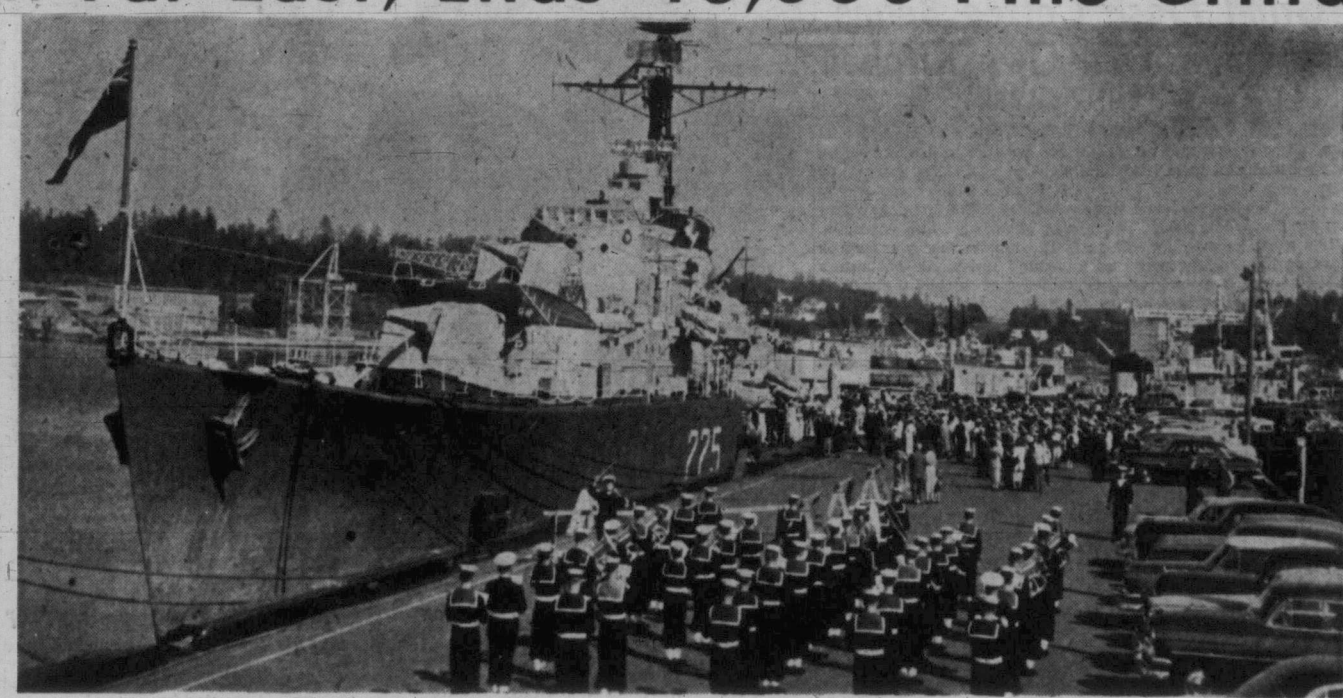

THREE-TIMER

At least one man aboard is a veteran of all three of the destroyer's Far East tours. He is PO Fred Shabon, of Blaine Lake, Saskatchewan. PO Shabon went over with Sioux for the first time in July, 1950, less than a month after the Korean war broke out, and signed on again for the succeeding two tours, leaving port in the spring of 1951 and the fall of 1954.

Return of Sioux marks the end of Canadian armed forces participation with the UN in the Far East. The move started last fall with the reduction from three to two ships, and a two-thirds reduction in the 23rd Canadian Infantry brigade.

The "V" class destroyer is the former HMS Viceroy, and was commissioned in the RCN in 1944. She saw 14 months of action in the Second World War, including D-Day sweeps, Murmansk Convoys, and the hunt for the Turpits.

After refit, Sioux will join the Second Canadian Escort Squadron, based at Esquimalt. Senior officer of the squadron is Capt. Paul D. Taylor, who commanded Sioux on her second Korean tour.

HMCS Naden Band and throng of friends and relatives welcome Sioux home on Saturday after 11-month cruise.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

This is the touching story of Mr. Framingham, whose mother was frightened by a flood, but who was otherwise normal in every respect.

True, Mr. Framingham had a hobby which is, perhaps, slightly unusual.

True, Mr. Framingham was a time-saver. By this, I do not mean he tried to find ways of saving time by doing things faster. Mr. Framingham liked to save time, in the same way other people like to save small bits of string, glass jars which they are sure will come in handy eventually, and bent nails which they will get around to straightening out some day.

Mr. Framingham was a time-saver with a purpose. Mr. Framingham saved time so he could use it sleeping later of a morning.

Mr. Framingham's line of work required him to punch a time-clock eight each morning, so he was never permitted to sneak an extra half hour in bed.

But, being a rather brilliant chap (remember, I told you his mother was frightened by a flood), Mr. Framingham worked out an excellent way of saving a half-hour each night, so he could sleep an extra half-hour in the morning.

He procured an alarm clock which ran fast, and gained approximately 30 minutes between the time he went to bed, and the time it rang in the morning.

Thus, when the alarm boomed in the morning, Mr. Framingham would awaken, turn off the alarm, consult his pocket watch and find, to his delighted surprise, he had an extra half-hour's sleep coming.

This method of time-saving worked very well for Mr. Framingham, but last week-end he felt he had developed a plan which, for a time-saver of his ilk, was the equivalent of finding the mother lode.

When the time came, at two a.m. Sunday, to change his watches and clocks back one hour, from daylight saving to standard time, Mr. Framingham refrained. Instead, he decided to SAVE the hour!

"I will save it," Mr. Framingham told himself, "until Monday morning. Then, when the alarm clock rings, I will set it back, not only the regular 30 minutes which it has gained during the night, but also a FULL HOUR."

"Oh joy, oh bliss," Mr. Framingham told himself. And he was so happy, he stayed up rather late Sunday night, congratulating himself.

Thus, when the alarm clock rang this morning, Mr. Framingham was even-sleeper than usual.

So he remembered to turn the alarm clock back 30 minutes, making it correct with his watch.

But he forgot about the hour he had saved from daylight saving time.

Mr. Framingham arrived at the office a full hour ahead of time. And while he was waiting for the time to punch the time clock, he fell to brooding.

They found Mr. Framingham's body floating in the Inner Harbour at 1245 hours, Greenwich Mean Time.

B.C. Regime Not Soared—N.Z. Leader

W. B. Owen, leader of the New Zealand Social Credit League, visited Premier W. A. C. Bennett at his office in Victoria this morning.

Mr. Owen is in Victoria for a public address at Oak Bay Junior High School Tuesday evening.

Today, he was guest at a luncheon at McEwen's Restaurant, attended by Premier Bennett, and several provincial cabinet ministers. About 75 representatives of southern Island Social Credit organizations were invited.

During a brief stopover in Vancouver Sunday, Mr. Owen told the Canadian Press B.C. cannot claim to have a Social Credit government, because it has "no control over the Canadian banking system."

The New Zealand party leader said "B.C. cannot have a fully Social Credit government without control of the banking system. In New Zealand, however, the country is autonomous. There are no provincial governments."

Demolition of the old B.C. Electric building at the corner of Douglas and Pandora began this morning. A new bank will arise on the site.

Farmer Construction was issued a demolition permit at City Hall early this morning and a few hours later workmen were removing the huge neon sign which fronted the building.

The Royal Bank of Canada will build a $200,000 bank block on the 550 square foot property. The new bank will replace the bank at present on the corner of Cormorant and Douglas, adjoining the building now being demolished.

Bank manager Reginald R. Wilde said earlier the new bank will be a one-story building.

Soldiers, Girl Hurt In Spectacular Crash

Six Hospitalized After Week-End Traffic Mishaps

Six persons needed hospital treatment for injuries received in week-end accidents.

Royal Jubilee Hospital authorities reported a 14-year-old city girl in good condition with undisclosed injuries after a spectacular crash at 6 a.m. Sunday on Cordova Bay Road.

The girl was a passenger in a car with two Gordon Head soldiers which crashed into a parked car.

The soldiers are William George Smith, Gordon Head army camp, who is under observation at HMCS Naden Hospital and Allister Robert McDonald, who was treated for cuts and abrasions at Royal Jubilee.

Saanich police said a car driven by Smith went out of control at Halliburton Road and struck a parked car, owned by Kenneth Earl Walsh, 5007 Cordova Bay Road.

BOTH TURN OVER

Force of the impact drove the parked auto 35 feet and turned it on its roof. The soldiers' car also turned over.

Damage, which was heavy to both vehicles, was estimated at about $900.

CYCLIST HURT

Cyclist Patrick Gillan, six, 425 Niagara, sustained a broken leg when he rode into a car Saturday at about 2.40 p.m.

Police said the boy was riding his tricycle from a driveway when the accident occurred. Car was driven by Frank Mulliner, 850 Cormorant.

The lad was taken to hospital.

Saanich Postpones Regular Meeting

Saanich council will meet tonight for a brief period and will then be adjourned until 8 p.m. Thursday. No business will be discussed.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Sands Memorial Chapel of Chimes.

Two Traffic Counts Cost Sailor $60

Total fine of $60 or 10 days in jail was imposed on Duncan O'Hara, HMCS Naden, when he appeared in city police court today on two traffic charges.

He was charged with careless driving and failing to have a driver's licence.

The charges arose from an accident Sept. 15 on Shakespeare. Police said a vehicle driven by the accused struck a parked car and knocked it 85 feet.

Total damages were $1,000.

Unique Policy Protects Students

Parents of the 1,600 elementary, junior and high school children in Saanich peninsula soon will be asked to decide if junior and sister again will be covered this term by a unique and inexpensive insurance scheme, which takes care of everything from sports injuries to a punch on the nose.

Last term, the first time the policy was in effect, 720 children in School District 63 were enrolled in the scheme which was then $1.50 per policy for elementary pupils, and $3.00 for junior and senior high pupils.

This term policy cost has been set at $1.50 per term for all participating students.

"We expect more students to take part this year," said Saanich Peninsula Parent Teacher Council president Art Bolster today.

The council started the scheme after requests from parents asking investigation of possible coverage. The group distributes information and policies to parents through teachers, and these are returned whether or not the policy is filled out.

Pupils are covered from the time they leave home until return, taking care of all expenses not coming under B.C. Hospital Insurance.

Policies expire at the end of the school term.

"Coverage is good, up to $100 in dental repairs for example," said Mr. Bolster, the Continental Casualty is the agency.

The contract is between the parent and the company, with the parent council acting as liaison only.

The plan is catching on elsewhere in B.C. and is operating in North Vancouver, Delta, Surrey and other places in the interior. It is not in use in Victoria or Vancouver schools.

Police Press Hunt For Knife-Wielder In City Robbery

The youth is described as about 19 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall, slightly built, dark wavy hair, small face and protruding ears. He was wearing a pullover sweater and strides.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Was it at 40 or 60 years of age Sir William Osler said men should be chloroformed? —H. W. A.

A.—That native of Ontario and great physician, professor of medicine in several universities and finally regius professor of medicine in Oxford University, says the Century Cyclopaedia of Names, "received great (and undesired) popular renown through publicity given his remark that men of 60 should be pensioned. The remark was exaggerated to the point where 'oslerize' came to mean the chloroforming of men as useless at the age of 40." The noted researcher and teacher, given a baronetcy in 1911, lived to be almost 70; years of age, busy to the last.

Q.—After whom was Drumheller, Alberta, named? —F. G. M.

Grind Fresh Coffee Beans Right in Your Own Kitchen

By PENNY SAVER

The aroma of fresh-ground coffee! There's nothing like it! A rich, good smell that permeates the house. You can buy coffee in the beans and have it ground right in your local market, or invest in a small coffee grinder. I found a Dutch-made one in town that's attractive and homey looking. The hopper, where you put the whole beans, is made of gleaming white porcelain. It has a black cover for contrast. The handle that you turn is made of light-weight metal with a shiny finish. At the bottom of the hopper is a thick glass container that catches the ground coffee. The device attaches to the wall just like a can-opener. You're sure of getting that fresh-ground flavor when you use this novel hand-operated coffee grinder. It's selling at $8.75.

Whole roast coffee beans are selling at 97 and 99 cents for a one pound bag.

In one of the local department store food sections, I saw an interesting looking marmalade. It's lime. Besides looking delicious, I discovered that it tastes simply wonderful. A 12 ounce jar costs 39 cents.

Everywhere I look this autumn, I find tartan clothes and fashionable accessories. The latest are clutch bags. I saw them in five different authentic tartans, to match your other accessories or favorite skirt. They are just the right size to hold all your needs without being bulky. A wonderful price, too... $2.95.

Where to find these things? Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you.

AS WE LIVE

Better Wife Is Overworked Than to Have Resentment

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

It is hard to know how much to expect an elderly relative to do. Expecting too much or too little can lead to hard feelings, as the woman who wrote the following letter has discovered.

(Q)—"I was very much interested in your letter about the mother-in-law who was playing the role of 'lady of leisure' in her son's home because it sounded so much like my mother-in-law. When she first came to live with us, she never raised a hand to do anything. As I was already overworked with three small children to take care of, I spoke to my husband and he talked to his mother. After that, she did offer to do some things around the house, but it was evident that she felt abused. Every evening she complained about how tired she was, how hard she had worked all day, and how she wished she had her own home where she wouldn't feel she was imposing on anyone or wouldn't have to work so hard.

"I know it was just a bid for sympathy because any time a friend called and asked her to come to see her or go to a movie, she was up and out of the house. If she had been my only worry, I wouldn't have minded so much. But I could see that my husband resented the way I was 'imposing' on his mother and it used to lead to a lot of quarreling. Fortunately for all of us, she now lives with another son and our household is once again a happy place. Tell the woman who wrote about her mother-in-law to profit by my experience and do the work herself for the sake of harmony in the home."—Mrs. A. F. D.

(A)—I think this is good advice, though it may be hard to take when one is already overworked. It is questionable whether the slight help an elderly relative can give is worth the constant reminder that she feels imposed upon and the constant complaints to her son.

If he sympathizes with her and is willing to believe that his wife is making his mother into a semi-slave, there is bound to be resentment and hard-feeling. For the sake of family harmony, it is better for the wife to be somewhat overworked for a few years, until her children are old enough to help her than to have friction and misunderstanding.

As a special service to our readers, Dr. Hurlock has written a 64-page booklet, "You and Your Problems." For your copy send 15c in coin with a self-addressed stamped envelope to this newspaper.

CWL Council Meets in New Parish Hall at Campbell River

Delegates from Duncan, Port Alberni, Alberni, Langford, Courtenay, Victoria and Esquimalt attended the quarterly regional meeting of Victoria Diocesan Council of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, held in the new parish hall at Campbell River. Mrs. Henry Retilly, president of the Campbell River sub-division, welcomed the gathering. Miss J. Madeline Clay, diocesan president, reported on the provincial CWL convention at Kamloops, from which a recommendation came to continue efforts to remove all salacious and obscene comics from local newsstands. Father D. Lehanne gave an address on the lives of two early missionaries on the West Coast of British Columbia — Archbishop Seghers, who was martyred in Alaska in 1886, and a Franciscan priest, Father Catala, who came to Nootka in 1783 from California and who is now generally referred to as the "Holy Man of Santa Clara." Reports were given by Father A. J. McLellan, diocesan director on the spiritual program; Mrs. J. Stowe, president, Courtenay sub-division; Mrs. V. McTavish, on the building of the new church at Langford, and first resident priest of the Franciscan order in the diocese in many years, on the new church in course of building at Alberni. Father R. Lombard stressed the need of foster and adoption homes; Mrs. R. Thrackray, president of Duncan CWL, and Mrs. R. Haig-Brown, Campbell River, discussed the Veritas Library, and Mrs. P. C. Shaw the league magazine. Refreshments were served and thanks given the hostess group, Campbell River CWL, by Mrs. A. Smith, vice-president of the diocesan council.

Dunkley-Pope Wedding On Saturday Evening

In Fairfield United Church Saturday evening, an exchange of wedding vows was heard between Miss Loretta Myrtle Pope, daughter of Mrs. Laurie Pope, 1219 Pandora Avenue, and Ronald Harry Dunkley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. F. Dunkley, 1445 Hamley.

Rev. T. Hawthorne conducted the ceremony in a setting of white gladioli and Esther Reed daisies. During the signing of the register, Roy Blevins sang "Because".

The bride was given in marriage by Len Woodward, and chose a white nylon tulle and lace gown with lace overskirt, Elizabethan collar and petal-point sleeves. A bouquet of red roses and chrysanthemums completed the picture.

Miss Beverley Pope was maid of honor for her sister, in a pink ballerina-length faille gown with matching bandeau. She carried yellow gladioli. Bridesmaid, Miss Marilyn Johnston, wore a blue similarly styled gown, with matching bandeau. Her bouquet was also of yellow gladioli.

Don Watson was best man, while Larry Dunkley, Robert Dunkley and Ken Gibson were ushers.

The Tango Room was the scene of a reception which followed. Tall candles in silver holders and vases of red roses flanked the three-tier cake which centered the head table. Bert Coombs proposed the traditional toast to the bride's happiness.

For her going-away outfit, the bride donned an olive green suit topped with a rose coat and worn with black accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Following a honeymoon spent touring the Interior of B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Dunkley will live at 417 Simcoe Street.

'Better Parenthood' Stressed by PTA

Commencing Sunday and continuing through until next Saturday, the British Columbia Parent-Teacher Association is sponsoring their annual "Better Parenthood Week." During this week emphasis is placed on the responsibility to the child and the work of the parent-teacher organization in the mental, moral, spiritual, social and physical development of the child.

Objectives of Better Parenthood Week are closely linked with those of the parent-teacher federation. They are: To make father and mothers more fully aware of the importance of using the best possible methods in the care and training of their children, and to acquaint them with the many sources of help and information available in handling their family problems; to encourage the formation of groups for study and discussion; to promote more co-operative understanding between parents and teachers; and between the school and community at large; to lend active support to all community efforts for better schools, child health, recreational facilities, vocational guidance and prevention of delinquency.

Co-operation in the many projects carried on in communities is the parent-teacher associations contribution to the effectiveness of better parenthood week. Among these are youth centres, child care centres, school lunch programs, co-operative play groups, children's film library, dental clinics, children's section of the public library and vacation and leisure reading clubs.

Oak Bay Junior High—First meeting of the new season of Oak Bay Junior High School PTA will be held in the school auditorium tonight at 8 p.m. Following business a get-acquainted bingo game will be held and refreshments served.

Business Women's Week Sponsored By BPW Clubs Across Canada

CALGARY (CP)—Canada's business and professional women will be spotlighted this week in the first "business women's week" ever observed in this country.

An intensive campaign to publicize the role which they play in Canadian life is the object of the observation today to Oct. 1 sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

"The week's purpose is to call attention to the achievements of women in business and professions and to give the public an opportunity to become acquainted with the program of the federation," says Una MacLean of Calgary, vice-president of the federation and chairman of the women's week committee.

"Since the formation of our federation 25 years ago, our objectives have broadened and deepened to meet the ever-increasing needs of employed women in Canada's rapidly expanding economy."

ACCEPT RESPONSIBILITIES

Miss MacLean said dissatisfaction with things as they were probably was the reason why shortly after the First World War business and professional women began to think about formation of the clubs.

Five clubs were represented by 30 delegates and observers at the time the federation was formed in 1910. The federation now has 6,700 members from 140 different clubs.

Business Women's Week will stress a challenge issued by Mrs. G. R. D. Laycock of Winnipeg, president of the federation, that "women accept the responsibilities they undertake when entering economic spheres."

"The future will find not on-lookers but participants with men, giving their skill and training to lead in creating a social consciousness which considers the good of the individual the most important concern of the immediate future," Mrs. Laycock says.

Federation members point out that gainfully employed women now make up 23 per cent of Canada's labor force and that committees have succeeded in placing on the statute books "equal pay for equal work" in Saskatchewan, Ontario and British Columbia.

The Canadian federation is one of the non-governmental bodies with consultative status on the United Nations. It has also established a fellowship to the status of women commission of United Nations. The first winner was Miss MacLean, who attended sessions earlier this year.

Through these activities the federation hopes greater opportunity will arise for participation in the broad field of international relations.

Miss MacLean summed up the aims of the federation this way: "Our numbers as employed women increase steadily as do the problems in relation to the welfare of working women.

"We must therefore develop within our country and community conditions whereby women will achieve wider recognition of their place in its growth."

Canoe Party Leader Drowns; 5 Others Safe

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) An American canoeist, one of six missing in Canada's northland, has been drowned, while the remainder of the party has been flown to Churchill.

Drowned was Arthur R. Moffatt, 35-year-old lecturer-explorer from Norwich, Vt. He was the leader of five Americans and one Brazilian who left Stony Rapids, just south of the northern Saskatchewan border, June 28, to paddle through some of the north's most forbidding territory to Baker Lake, N. W. T., 375 miles northeast of Churchill.

The five remaining members of the party arrived at Baker Lake

Ike's Recovery 'Reasonably Sure'

PM'S SON SEEKS SEAT IN TODAY'S VOTING

Four federal ridings in Quebec and New Brunswick elect representatives in the House of Commons today.

The outcome of the byelections, all of which were Liberal seats, cannot materially affect the party strength in the house, but two were being watched with particular interest. In Temiscouata (Eastern Quebec) Jean Paul St. Laurent, second son of the prime minister, sought to enter political life as a Liberal member. In Quebec South, Frank Power, hoped to win the seat recently vacated by his father, Sen. C. G. (Chubby) Power.

The other elections were in the Quebec riding of Bellechasse and the New Brunswick riding of Restigouche-Madawaska.

Results will be known early this evening.

In Vancouver Hospital

Fisheries Minister James Sinclair left a train five minutes before it was scheduled to leave for Ottawa Sunday night, and was in Vancouver General Hospital today undergoing a complete physical check. The minister, shown as he arrived at Hong Kong, was injured while touring Russia in August, arrived back in Vancouver by air early Sunday from Tokyo, 78 days after leaving Canada for the Soviet Union. A railway official said Mr. Sinclair walked off the train to a waiting car.

Canada Backs Japan 16 Others for U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Canada today suggested the blanket admission to the United Nations of 17 countries, including Japan.

Paul Martin, chief of the Canadian delegation to the General Assembly, called for "serious consideration" to the early admission of all countries whose applications have been blocked by the east-west deadlock except North Korea, South Korea, North Viet Nam and South Viet Nam.

"There are, of course, particular difficulties with reference to the admission of countries temporarily divided," he said.

Martin, who has participated in the secret arms reductions talks among the world's five major atomic powers for the past four weeks, said Canada was "more hopeful than at any time in the past 10 years" that a disarmament agreement could be reached.

Martin hailed last summer's Geneva conference on the peaceful uses of atomic energy and said he was "confident that it will be followed by other meetings and developments."

He deplored the tendency of world powers to hold major conferences outside the framework of the U.N.

"For the most part," he said, "we do not criticize in any way these efforts to promote settle-

Arsonists Set New Blazes In Vancouver

Victims Driven Out Into Street

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two houses were heavily damaged here during the week-end in a series of fires blamed on arsonists.

The biggest blaze broke out late Sunday in a three-story rooming house and spread to another multiple dwelling next door. The rooming house was destroyed, while the adjacent structure was badly damaged. There were no immediate estimates of loss.

Nearly a score of tenants in the rooming house were driven into the street when the fast-spreading flames, fanned by a stiff wind, roared up the back of the frame building.

Residents said a sheet of flame shot up from the back of the rooming house, quickly enveloping the structure.

Mrs. E. E. Walton, 76, who lives next door to the destroyed house, said "it surely was the work of a firebug. In 10 minutes the whole back of the house was in flames."

Earlier, a man told police a neighbor had caught two boys, aged nine or 10, starting a fire against a woodshed. He said the blaze was extinguished before it could spread.

Another resident said he saw the same boys starting a fire in a nearby block.

Two older boys were sought by police after they were seen turning in an alarm in the south end.

Canada, U.S. Chiefs Study Wheat Problem

OTTAWA (BUP)—Top Canadian and American cabinet spokesmen studied the problems of growing farm surpluses and the prospects of continuing the international wheat agreement at a morning session on North American economic co-operation here today.

Spokesmen for both sides said the discussions were making good progress at the close of the morning meeting.

The two cabinet teams, including the key economic policy makers of both governments, met for more than three hours during the morning. They broke up to go to lunch with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent at his official residence and were scheduled to return for an afternoon meeting.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson said the question of continuing the international wheat agreement, by which the major wheat-exporting nations arrange guaranteed markets with some 44 importing countries, was "touched upon" at the morning session.

Outside the conference room he told reporters the United States position of continuing the agreement through another term "has not yet been firmly up."

Benson said the discussion also dwelt on the need for consultation between Canada and the United States on the handling of large farm surpluses. U.S. special deals and give-away shipments of grain have caused considerable concern to the Canadian government.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER ... second term in doubt?

VICE-PRESIDENT NIXON ... GOP's next-in-line.

ADLAI STEVENSON ... his chances soar.

President's Illness Upsets Politicians, Stock Exchanges

(Compiled From AP and UP Dispatches)

DENVER, Colo.—President Eisenhower has a "reasonably good chance" for complete recovery from Saturday's "moderate" heart attack.

Dr. Paul White, of Boston, one of the world's top heart specialists, so declared today after spending the week-end at the ailing President's bedside.

He also said that if the President's progress continues at his present rate he would be "physically able" to serve a second term.

But across the United States repercussions from Mr. Eisenhower's surprise illness boiled through financial and political circles.

At New York, bond and share prices broke sharply, some issues falling as much as $15. The decline was likened to 1929. Stock prices skidded in sympathy at London, Toronto and Montreal. (See Page 7 for details).

Politically, dismayed Republicans privately conceded the President's illness was a one blow for the party's prospects in the 1956 presidential elections. Democrats (also privately) were hinting their bleak presidential outlook suddenly was shining like a desert sunrise.

Must 'Take Things Easy'

Dr. White, one of five noted doctors attending the President, was so pleased with Mr. Eisenhower's progress that he left for his Boston home this morning. The noted physician was flown to Denver Saturday night to attend Mr. Eisenhower in Fitzsimmons army hospital.

The Boston specialist warned, however, that the President would have to take things easy for a couple of months. If he gets by the next two weeks, then you can say he probably will be all right.

President Eisenhower's illness struck early Saturday morning in the summer White House here, where the President has been holidaying.

It was announced Saturday morning as "a digestive upset."

In mid-day it was revealed the President had suffered a "mild" heart attack, and had moved to the army hospital. The President, it was reported, walked from his automobile into the hospital.

Blood Clot in Heart Artery

The attack was described as a "coronary thrombosis"—formation of a blood clot in a branch of the arteries which supply blood to the muscles of the heart.

The President was in an oxygen tent all day Sunday but today the tent is being used only occasionally. Doctors said the tent is standard procedure in coronary cases because it enables patients to get complete rest.

Mr. Eisenhower Sunday noon had his first solid food since entering the hospital. He called for, and was brought, a bowl of oatmeal.

This morning he ate a hearty breakfast—fruit, oatmeal, a soft boiled egg, toast and milk. On Sunday the president spoke briefly with his son, Maj.

John Eisenhower, stationed with the army at Fort Belvoir, Va., who flew here from Washington in the presidential plane Columbine.

Other visitors included the president's wife, who has been staying in a room across the hall in the hospital's four-room tower suite where Mr. Eisenhower is confined. His mother-in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud, spent an hour and a half with her daughter and grandson at the hospital early Sunday evening but did not see the president. Except for doctors and nurses, only Mrs. Eisenhower and their son have been admitted to the president's room.

No thought, at least for the time being, was being given to moving the president to another hospital.

Thrombosis Blocked Ike's Heart Artery

President Eisenhower is suffering from a blocked artery of the heart.

Described by his physicians as "a mild anterior thrombosis," in layman's language it means a solidifying of blood within an artery transverse the front of the heart, so that part of the heart involved must be fed through other arteries.

This was the explanation given today by Dr. Peter Banks, member of the Times-Victoria Medical Association sponsored Heart Forum last April.

Complete rest is needed in order to let the damaged heart muscle form a hard scar.

Formation of the scar usually takes place in the second week of illness and that normally a third week of complete rest is necessary for the scar to harden.

After that several more weeks complete recovery.

To Wed Tonight?

Friends of Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher said the long-hesitating Hollywood couple will be married tonight at the country club at Grossinger, N.Y. The two entertainers who checked in at the club Sunday, were not available for comment and no one connected with them would confirm the report.

Doctors, Nurses Nearby

The president naps frequently but when he is awake chats with the doctors and nurses.

An army nurse is on duty in the immediate vicinity of the president at all times, either in the room or just outside, to keep watch on his respiration when he is beneath the oxygen tent. The four doctors in immediate attendance are in a room just a few steps down the hall.

Prayerful wishes for speedy recovery of the president, who will be 65 Oct. 14, poured into the temporary White House from all-over-the-world.

The messages included a cable from Queen Elizabeth.

But at Fitzsimmons Army Hospital, where Eisenhower was taken Saturday afternoon, there was no thought of the tremendous political impact of the heart seizure, which stunned

the country and people around the globe.

That concern—and it is huge—was left to Republican party leaders, who until the President was stricken, had almost unanimously refused to entertain the idea he might not be available for a second term.

It seemed to have raised an over-riding likelihood that Eisenhower would decide against seeking re-election. He said himself last Aug. 4 the state of his health would be an important factor in his decision.

Two weeks ago he told Republican chairmen from 48 states to dismiss from their minds the idea of the indispensable man—and not to "pin your flag ... tightly to one mast ..."

Because, Eisenhower added, "humans are frail and they are mortal."

Nixon Chances Poor, Experts Say

Vice-president Richard Nixon appears to command the greatest party organization of any potential Republican presidential candidate.

Some of the ablest Republican strategists said that, as of today, Nixon is second only to Eisenhower in popularity with the party's state chairmen, governors and others who will play a major role in the selection of delegates to the San Francisco nominating convention next year.

However, these same strategists do not believe Nixon would be able to make a major bid for the nomination without the active support of Eisenhower himself.

Neither are they sure that Nixon could win top place on the ticket, even with Eisenhower's help.

Despite all the political breaks Eisenhower has tossed to Nixon, party leaders do not rule out the possibility that the President eventually might choose a more mature colleague to receive his support for the nomination.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, who tried to take himself out of consideration for the nomination last April, and Treasury Secretary George Humphrey are Even money by the punters in the $600 event for maiden two-year-olds the dark brown gelding made every post a winning one. Eight lengths on top as the field of eight hit the first turn His Jack eased up down the backstretch, then opened up as the field caught him at the head of the stretch to win by three lengths breezing Jimmy Sivewright was aboard the winner. Time was 1.17.

First Tenor, an outsider, picked up second money while Joact, one of the second choices, was third.

Following considerable work on the track over the week-end it was rated as good today, despite the rain.

CPR Strike Postponed

Negotiations between Seafarers' International Union and the B.C. Coast Service of the CPR are again today after last-minute intervention by government conciliation officer George Currie prevented a strike which would have halted CPR steamer operations on the coast at midnight Sunday.

Mr. Currie announced Sunday afternoon the strike was postponed, and CPR officials followed with an announcement that ships would sail as scheduled.

Saturday both CPR and union spokesmen regarded the strike and consequent tie-up of shipping as a certainty.

Mr. Currie said the postponement was made to allow further talks between SIU and CPR. He did not elaborate or say whether another strike deadline has been set.

However, similar strike action against the CPR ferry Princess Helene, which operates in the Maritimes, has been deferred until 6 a.m. Wednesday.

The strike, called to back a 12 1/2 per cent basic wage increase and a boost in overtime rates, would have tied up 12 passenger and freight vessels and made more than 1,000 workers idle on this coast.

Negotiations broke down Friday and the union earlier rejected a conciliation board award granting an increase in overtime pay but no general wage boost. Present rates of pay range from $175 to $215 a month for engine room workers and from $200 to $210 for deckhands.

DA BUMS IS READY DIS TIME

Pee Wee'll Make Dem Yanks Jump Off Da Umpire State

BY OSCAR FREALE
BROOKLYN, U.S.A. (UP)—Dis is da year we finally flatten dose jolks from across da river. Take it from Old Fearless, our bums is finally gonna win da World Series. We'll have 'em jumpin' off the Umpire State Building.

Cuz dis time we molder da bums in five games. Sure, I know, we ain't won the serious in eight times. But as my cousin ovet in Joisey sez, even a blind pig's gotta find a acorn ovet in a while.

DIS IS DA TIME
Eight for nuthin, dat's our heroes when it comes to da serious. And da last five day lose to dose bums ovet in da Bronx. Dose carryin' tings a little too far and our guys is really ready dis time.

Yeah, dey oughta be. Nobody's arguin dat dey've had enuff practice. But dis is it. Six times we blow it to de Yankees. Even Pee-wee Reese, as nice a guy as you'll ever bump into, has to quit bein' a nice guy dis time. He's been dere all six of dose times and it's da kinda record nobody is proud of.

Gil Hodges is anudder guy ain't got much 't' be happy about. In one of dese here serious he goes 21 for oh, and I mean "Oh". Dat's anudder record we don't want nuthin' to do wit.

POWER TO BURN
Look at da power we got. Da Dook has gotta look in his eye like Bugsy-Fliegelman-looks at his mudder-in-law. Campy's as happy as a guy who won a doll with a dime down, at Coney. Robinson is as ready as a prowl car in Brownsville and dat Furillo, well, dey'll tink "da arm" has six of 'em when we're finished.

Wadda dey got? Nuthin' dat's what.

And, if by some chanc dat Dodgers do lose, I hope dey do go ta Joisey. It'll be too good for 'em.

Let's get wit it.
